(II) Future strategy for development of HEC

3. HEC will integrate the resources of all subsidiaries under our group to raise the status of HEC among its peer companies.
4. HEC will optimize our human resources and organizational arrangement and engage in more effective management and decision-making to improve our operating performance.
5. HEC will seek growth and stable revenues and profits to enhance the interests of our shareholders and the welfare of our employees.

III. Effects of external competition, legal environment and overall business environment

- (I) With regard to external competition, facing rapidly changing industrial technologies and diverse customer demands, HEC will continue to expand the scale and scope of R&D and effectively integrate our resources to enhance our R&D capability. HEC will meet the demands of different customers through product diversification, and we will extend our market reach to various areas to explore new markets, with the expectation of accelerating growth in our revenues and profits.
- (II) With regard to the legal environment, in response to increasingly stringent requirements for environmental protection and labor rights worldwide and in Mainland China, we will continue to improve and keep fulfilling our social responsibilities as a green business and in caring for our employees in order to reduce the restrictions of the legal environment. Our management team will constantly stay informed and take the most appropriate measures in response in a timely manner.
- (III) With regard to the overall business environment, looking ahead to the Taiwanese economy in 2024, as both the US and China face challenges in consumption and investment respectively, although other major economies such as Europe are expected to show signs of recovery, and the economic performance of emerging markets and developing economies is better than in 2023, it is still difficult to support the sluggish situation in the US and Chinese economies. Therefore, major international forecasting agencies believe that the global economic growth rate in 2024 will be slightly lower than in 2023. However, there is still an expectation of a gradual recovery in global commodity trade, which should help stabilize Taiwan's external trade performance.

We will keep strengthening the integration of external and internal resources in order to enhance our advantage in market competition, improve our overall operating performance, increase the welfare of our employees and satisfy the interests of our shareholders under an overall constantly changing business environment.

Best wishes to you all,

May you have good health and may all your endeavors be successful.

Chairman and President: Wang Chun-Tung

Our directors serve an average term of five years, and none of our independent directors has served for more than three consecutive terms. The composition of our directors, all of whom are nationals of the Republic of China (Taiwan), includes four independent directors (40%) and one director who is also our employee (10%). Furthermore, we stress the importance of gender equality in the composition of the Board of Directors, whose current members include three women, meaning female directors account for 30% of them. In the future, we will continue to focus on increasing the percentage of female directors.

No spousal relationship or relationship within the second degree of consanguinity exists among our directors.

1. Analysis of percentage: The information above indicates that in 2023, the total remuneration paid to our directors, president and vice presidents was higher than in 2022, and that the percentage of distribution was higher than in 2022, as a result of an increase in our profit in 2023 leading to the payment of more bonuses and allocation of more remuneration for employees. Therefore, such change is considered reasonable.
2. The policy, criteria and combinations for payment of remuneration, the procedures for determination of remuneration, and the relevance to the operating performance and future risks:

(1) Policy, criteria and combinations for payment of remuneration:

1. According to Article 29 of the Articles of Incorporation, the remuneration for each director performing his/her duties shall be determined by the Board of Directors based on the level of his/her participation and the value of his/her contribution, taking into account the general standards of peer companies. Where HEC has a profit in a year, no more than 4% of the profit will be allocated as the remuneration for directors in accordance with Article 29 of the Articles of Incorporation. We regularly assess the remuneration for directors in accordance with the "Regulations for Evaluation of the Performance of the Board of Directors," with the reasonableness of relevant performance evaluations and remuneration reviewed by the Remuneration Committee and the Board of Directors. Based on the level of a director's participation in and the value of his/her contribution to the operations of HEC, his/her remuneration will be allocated according to the weight granted and the weighted result. A director will be granted a basic weight of 1, and an additional weight of 0.5 if he/she serves as the Chairman, with his/her remuneration paid annually. The weight for any director who has served for less than one year will be calculated based on the length of his/her service.

2. Regarding the remuneration for our managers, the "Regulations Governing Remuneration" has specified allowances and bonuses as consideration and reward for the efforts and contributions made by our employees in their jobs, and bonuses are paid based on our annual operating performance, financial conditions and operations and personal job performance. Where HEC has a profit in a year, 2% - 10% of the profit will be allocated as the remuneration for employees in accordance with Article 29 of the Articles of Incorporation. We pay bonuses to our managers based on the results of performance evaluation conducted in accordance with the "Regulations Governing Performance Evaluation." The scope of performance evaluation for managers consists of: 1. Financial Indicators: the level of contribution of each business unit to our profit according to our management and income statements; 2. Non-Financial Indicators: This includes three main aspects: the implementation of the company's core values and operational management capabilities, participation in sustainable management, and the results of corporate governance evaluations. The remuneration for business performance is calculated based on these indicators. If the corporate governance evaluation results reach the fourth level or above, remuneration adjustments will be considered to reward excellent management practices. The remuneration system will be reviewed from time to time based on actual operational conditions and relevant laws.
3. According to the organizational by-laws of the Remuneration Committee, the combinations of remuneration paid by HEC includes cash remuneration, stock options, dividends, retirement benefits or severance pay, allowances and other tangible incentives. Their scope is consistent with the remuneration for directors and managers as stipulated in the Regulations Governing Information to be Published in Annual Reports of Public Companies.

(2) Procedures for determination of remuneration:

1. The remuneration for our directors and managers is regularly assessed based on the results of evaluation conducted in accordance with the "Regulations for Evaluation of the Performance of the Board of Directors" and the "Regulations Governing Performance Evaluation," while the remuneration for the Chairman and the President is determined by the Board of Directors with reference to the standards of peer companies in connection with the indicators for our operating performance. To fully reflect the fulfillment of the operating performance indicators, the performance of the Chairman and the President is measured on the basis of the operating, governance and financial results relating to our operating indicators, the scope of whose evaluation includes pre-tax net profit, management of operational safety, supervision over implementation of financial plans, management of revenues, enhancement of internal control, implementation of quality assurance and management and other performance targets relating to the primary job responsibilities, or customer satisfaction as an indicator.
2. The performance assessment and remuneration of the directors and managers of the Company are subject to regular evaluation and review by the Remuneration Committee and the Board of Directors each year. In addition to considering individual performance achievement and contributions to the Company, the assessment also takes into account the overall operational performance of the Company, future industry risks and development trends, as well as periodic reviews of the compensation system in line with actual operational conditions and relevant regulations. Furthermore, it comprehensively considers current trends in corporate governance and the results of corporate governance evaluations, providing fair compensation to ensure a balance between sustainable operation and risk management of the Company. The actual amounts of remuneration paid to directors and managers for 2023 were determined by the board of directors after review by the Remuneration Committee.

(3) Relevance to the operating performance and future risks:

1. The review of HEC's remuneration policy, related payment standards, and systems is primarily based on the overall operating conditions of HEC. Payment standards are determined based on performance achievement rates and contribution levels to enhance the overall organizational effectiveness of the board of directors and management department. Furthermore, taking reference from industry salary standards, ensure that HEC's remuneration for the management team remains competitive within the industry, in order to retain excellent managerial talent.
2. The performance targets of our managers are associated with "risk control" to ensure all possible risks within the scope of their responsibilities are manageable and preventable, and the results of rating are based on their actual performance and connected with the relevant human resources and remuneration policies. Important decisions by our management are made after considering all relevant risk factors. The performance of relevant decisions is reflected in our profit, creating a link between the remuneration for our management and the performance in risk control.

Climate-related information of listed and OTC companies

1. Implementation status of climate-related information

| Item  | Implementation  |
| 1. Explanation of the supervision and governance of climate-related risks and opportunities by the Board of Directors and management.                          | HEC have established the "Sustainability Committee". With the Board of Directors as the highest supervisory body, the committee oversees the management of climate-related risks and key achievements, and is responsible for horizontal cross-departmental coordination and collaboration to integrate sustainability strategies and climate action issues into product, operations, and value chain management. HEC established the Sustainable Development Committee in chaired by the General Manager and composed of senior executives from relevant departments as designated by the General Manager. At least one meeting shall be convened annually, with additional meetings convened as deemed necessary. Through comprehensive assessment and analysis, including various climate change-related risk scenarios, strategies for response shall be developed. Regular reports shall be submitted to the Board of Directors on the implementation outcomes and future plans regarding sustainable development, encompassing climate change-related issues, to ensure that climate-related matters are incorporated into the perspective of senior management and prudently managed.  |
| 2. Describe how identified climate risks and opportunities affect the business, strategy, and finances of the enterprise (short-term, medium-term, long-term). | HEC faces both risks and opportunities stemming from climate change. The primary risks arise from increased costs associated with carbon emissions during the manufacturing process, as well as pressures from the supply chain and competitors. These factors are considered in terms of their impact on financial statements, directly affecting the company's net profit and cash flow. Indirect impacts may affect asset values, accounts receivable, inventory value, and so forth. However, considering the trend of future investors incorporating ESG factors into investment considerations, we remain committed to achieving sustainable operations. Our climate strategy is based on a scientifically grounded reduction pathway, focusing on improving energy efficiency, expanding renewable energy use, investing in innovative carbon reduction technologies, and removing residual carbon emissions. These actions are structured into three stages, progressively moving the entire value chain towards net zero emissions. I. Short-term: (1) Transitional Risks: Increased energy costs, increased costs of implementing decarbonization equipment, and reduced revenue due to customer turnover. (2) Physical Risks: Increased severity and frequency of extreme weather events. (3) Market Opportunities: Reduction in paper usage. II. Medium-term: |

|  | (1) Transitional Risks: Transitioning to low-emission technologies (low-carbon services), but with increased costs of transitioning to low-carbon technologies. (2) Market Opportunities: Developing low-carbon products and services, adjusting service processes, such as paperless workflows. III. Long-term: (1) Market Opportunities: Enhancing corporate image and company valuation.  |
| 3. Describe the financial impact of extreme weather events and transition actions.  | During the corporate transition, corresponding costs may increase, including the purchase of carbon emission quotas, facility improvements and investments in decarbonization technologies, energy efficiency improvement measures, etc. The implementation of carbon taxes will require companies to pay additional costs for carbon emissions. These costs may also create pressure on the supply chain: carbon taxes may increase costs for upstream suppliers, thereby affecting the prices of raw materials and the stability of supply for companies. Additionally, the implementation of carbon taxes may put pressure on companies in competitive markets. If competitors can better cope with carbon taxes by reducing carbon emissions and improving energy efficiency, they may have a relative cost competitive advantage.  |
| 4. Describe how the process of identifying, evaluating, and managing climate risks is integrated into the overall risk management system. | In addition to risk response plans that may affect financial performance, our risk management includes assessments of natural disasters, environmental risks, and information risks, as well as emergency response plans. We integrate a preventive mindset into our corporate culture to eliminate identifiable and avoidable risks as much as possible, thereby reducing potential losses from operational disruptions. We actively develop advanced and more sensitive monitoring, evaluation, and risk control procedures and criteria for the major risks faced in various business operations, including sales markets, production operations, human resource planning, progress in new product development, and financial accounting and control. We aim to balance safety and efficiency, establish more economically efficient business operation models, and strengthen information system establishment and enhance early warning monitoring capabilities. Regarding environmental aspects, we have established and maintain emergency response procedures to cope with potential accidents or emergencies. These procedures serve as references for formulating response processes and plans. Their contents include the scope of emergency response plans, organizational responsibilities and structures, activation processes, hazard identification and risk assessment, rescue plans, evacuation maps, Safety Data Sheets (SDS), emergency response audit methods, etc. By following these operational processes and related methods, each unit can immediately reduce or mitigate the impacts and damages caused by human-made, natural disasters, and other major incidental events, such as personnel |

| 5. If resilience to climate change risks is assessed using scenario analysis, explain the scenario, parameters, assumptions, analysis factors, and major financial impacts used in the analysis. | Type of Financial Impact: The imposition of carbon taxes leads to increased operating costs. I. Risk Description: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) Cost Increase: This may include the purchase of carbon emission quotas, facility improvements and investments in decarbonization technologies, energy efficiency improvement measures, etc. The implementation of carbon taxes will require companies to pay additional costs for carbon emissions.</li> <li>(2) Supply Chain Pressure: carbon taxes may increase costs for upstream suppliers, thereby affecting the prices of raw materials and the stability of supply for companies.</li> <li>(3) Competitive Pressure: the implementation of carbon taxes may put pressure on companies in competitive markets. Potential Financial Impact: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) Cost Increase: These additional costs will raise the operational expenses of the company, potentially leading to a decrease in profit margins.</li> <li>(2) Supply Chain Pressure: It may increase the supply risks for companies, adversely affecting business operations and production capabilities.</li> <li>(3) Competitive Pressure: It may lead to companies losing market share, thereby negatively impacting revenue and profits.</li> <li>(4) Financial Statement Impact: Direct impacts will be reflected in the company's net profits and cash flows;</li> </ul> |

| 6. If there are transformation plans to address climate-related risks, please explain the contents of such plans, as well as the indicators and targets used to identify and manage physical risks and transition risks.  | In response to the opportunities for transformation arising from the "climate emergency" posed by climate change challenges, our company aims to lead our customers towards a low-carbon green economic transition to mitigate climate impacts. To concretely implement and advance sustainability, we actively promote related initiatives, establish green management strategy goals, and implement solar power generation (for self-use) at our Donghua factory in mainland China to fulfill the purpose of protecting the Earth's environment. HEC disclosed emissions and waste data for the past two years in 2023 and completed ISO 14064-1 verification in January 2024.    |
| 7. If internal carbon pricing is used as a planning tool, please explain the basis for price setting.   | HEC has not yet planned to use internal carbon pricing as a planning tool.  |

If climate-related targets are set, please explain the activities covered, scope of greenhouse gas emissions, planning timeframe, annual progress achieved, etc. If carbon offsetting or renewable energy certificates (RECs) are used to achieve relevant goals, please explain the source and quantity of carbon offsetting credits or the quantity of renewable | In response to the opportunities for transformation arising from the "climate emergency" posed by climate change challenges, our company aims to lead our customers towards a low-carbon green economic transition to mitigate climate impacts. Statement of Internal Control System

Date: March 13, 2024

Based on the results of self-audit of our internal control system in 2023, we hereby issue the following statement:

- I. We acknowledge that our Board of Directors and managers are responsible for establishment, implementation and maintenance of the internal control system, and that we have established such system, whose purpose is to provide reasonable assurance for achievement of the goals of operational effectiveness and efficiency (including profits, performance and protection of asset security), reliable, timely and transparent reporting in compliance with applicable regulations, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.
- II. The internal control system has its inherent limits. Regardless of how perfect its design is, an effective internal control system can only provide reasonable assurance for the achievement of the above-mentioned three goals. Moreover, due to changes in the environment and circumstances, the effectiveness of the internal control system may also change. Nonetheless, our internal control system has a self-monitoring mechanism. Once a deficiency is identified, we will take action to correct it.
- III. We determine whether the design and implementation of our internal control system are effective based on the criteria specified in the "Regulations Governing Establishment of Internal Control Systems by Public Companies" (hereinafter the "Regulations") for determination of the effectiveness of an internal control system. The criteria adopted by the "Regulations" for determination of an internal control system divide such system into five elements based on the process of management and control: 1. control environment; 2. risk assessment; 3. control operations; 4. information and communication; and 5. supervision. Each of the elements further includes several criteria. For the foregoing criteria, please see the requirements of the "Regulations."
- IV. We have adopted the above-mentioned criteria for determination of an internal control system to assess the effectiveness of the design and implementation of our internal control system.
- V. Based on the results of the foregoing assessment, we consider that our internal control system (including the supervision and management of subsidiaries) as of December 31, 2023, including the design and implementation of the internal control system in relation to the understanding of the level of accomplishment of the goals of operational effectiveness and efficiency, reliable, timely and transparent reporting in compliance with applicable regulations and compliance with applicable laws and regulations, is effective and able to reasonably ensure the achievement of the above-mentioned goals.
- VI. This statement will form part of the main content of our annual report and prospectus and will be published. In the event that any of the above published information involves falsification, concealment or other illegality, we will be subject to the legal liabilities under Articles 20, 32, 171 and 174 of the Securities and Exchange Act.
- VII. We declare that this statement was approved by a Board of Directors meeting on March 13, 2024. None of the ten directors attending the meeting expressed any objection, and all of them approved the information in this statement.

The remaining amount of the foregoing earnings shall be set aside or reversed as special reserves. ## (II) Overview of industry

1. Current status and development of industry

PC industry

Since 2023, due to the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict and persistent core inflation, demand for consumer electronics such as computers, laptops, and smartphones has weakened, resulting in a significant slowdown in global economic growth. Additionally, major tech firms have been reducing capital expenditure, leading to increasingly evident layoff issues. With end customers actively reducing inventory and becoming more conservative in placing orders, the overall performance of global computer product shipments is unfavorable. It is estimated that global computer product shipments will continue to decline in 2023, posing challenges to the computer peripheral equipment manufacturing industry in our country. The "2024 Mid-Year Economic Outlook" report released by the OECD in February forecasts global economic growth of 2.9% in 2024, higher than the 2.7% predicted in November 2023, but slower than the 3.1% growth in 2023. The organization's growth forecast for 2025 remains unchanged at 3.0%.

PCs are expected to enjoy three major advantages in 2024, boosting the industry back to a growth trajectory. These include healthy PC inventory levels, opportunities arising from the post-2020 epidemic equipment replacement cycle, and Microsoft's plan to end support for Windows 10 updates in October 2025, significantly increasing enterprise motivation to upgrade, thereby assisting the PC industry in emerging from its slump and ushering in a new wave of shipments. Therefore, it can be understood that the industry is on a path of recovery and growth.

In addition to benefiting from the replacement cycle, the recent selling points of the PC industry also include the flourishing development of generative AI applications in recent years. The trend is shifting from high reliance on cloud data centers for AI inference to direct AI application on terminal devices. This makes AI PC a focal point in the PC industry, impacting hardware specification upgrades and driving significant changes in user scenarios and supply chain reorganization. The vast opportunities in the AI PC industry have become a battleground for many major players, with more research resources and funds continuously invested. AI PC is poised to play a key role in leading the industry to the next peak.

Overall, while demand for general personal computer-related power supplies is not expected to experience significant growth, servers, automotive, and other downstream products can maintain higher shipment growth rates. Moreover, server power supplies continue to develop towards higher power specifications, and PC power supplies are also upgrading to ATX 3.0 specifications. With domestic manufacturers gradually entering high unit price products such as automotive, it can support the revenue performance of related manufacturers. However, as some products are transferred to third-party manufacturing sites, it is estimated that the production and sales value of the domestic power supply manufacturing industry in 2024 will only remain flat compared to 2023.

2. Relationship among the upstream, midstream, and downstream in the industry of PC power supplies

Relationship between the upstream raw materials and industry

The primary raw materials of switch-mode power supplies generally include active, passive, and magnetic components, other electronic components, chassis, and printed circuit boards. A few kinds of components, such as controller ICs and semiconductors, are mostly supplied by large foreign manufacturers, while others are mainly made by domestic manufacturers. Thus, they are closely related to the upstream industry.

Relationship between the downstream products and switch-mode power supplies

Power supplies are mainly used in computers and peripheral equipment. As the IT industry keeps booming, Taiwan has become the largest producer of switch-mode power supplies globally. Moreover, power supplies are an indispensable component of the IT industry, and as a result the power supply industry collaborates closely with the upstream, midstream, and downstream suppliers. The following is the structure of the upstream, midstream, and downstream sectors of the industry:

(IV) Long-term and short-term business development plans

1. Short-term development plan:

Marketing strategy:

- A. Seeking retail ODM projects:

Due to a great year-by-year increase in the demand for gaming PCs, many major retail manufacturers have kept releasing new products, and some non-chassis brands have also entered the chassis market. With professional teams and years of experience in ODM, we differentiate ourselves from Mainland Chinese manufacturers in that we are capable of providing plenty of services to retail customers, and our experience in areas like ID, mechanism and specification is where our strength lies. We will actively seek projects from major gaming ODMs.

- B. Focusing on local marketing to increase brand awareness:

Enhancing brand awareness will in the long term be positively helpful for sales. With a plan for agents and complete product lines, the return on continued investment of marketing resources will be reflected on the sales figures more quickly. The focuses of our plan for marketing activities include:

- (1) Game event: Each year, players from across the world focus on the largest annual game events by planning to participate in such professional and popular events including the E3 Expo, Dreamhack and PAX in the US, the China Joy in China, the Gamescom in Germany, and the IgroMir in Russia, increasing the opportunities for players to experience the Cougar-brand products and for exposure of the brand.
- (2) Gaming tournament: We take part in gaming tournaments as a co-organizer, focusing on those featuring LOL, Overwatch and Dota2, the top three games in terms of the number of players.
- (3) Gaming team: We sponsor gaming teams to join tournaments using the name of Cougar to further develop the market of gaming fans.
- (4) Channel marketing: We plan to invest in channel marketing in collaboration with online and offline channels.

C. Management of the Cougar brand for our private outdoor products:

As the gross profit from OEM continues to drop, no breakthrough is possible without the sale of private brands. Based on our experience in the gaming brand Cougar, we will develop new brands of outdoor products for sale to increase our profit and revenue.

D. Investment in gaming products with sales synergy:

Based on our plan for agents and the gradual completion of the sales channels being built, we are able to develop more complete product series of chassis and power supplies, while more new product lines for gaming desks are expected to make them as popular as gaming chairs. We also target the market demand for XBOX/PlayStation and mobile games to release more high-, middle- and low-end headset products, so that we will be able to gain immediate benefits from sales growth.

Production policy:

A. Integration of materials to increase gross profit margin:

Integration of the design of materials: We will integrate materials including adapters, semiconductors, and cable materials, and we will concentrate on purchasing a single category of materials to facilitate their management. By concentrating on a single category of materials, we can increase the volume purchased to create favorable conditions for bargaining. We can also concentrate on mass production of privately manufactured adapters and cable materials to reduce costs and increase gross profit.

B. Enhancement of production technologies:

We will build a complete set of equipment and workforce for our laboratories, develop the talents and fundamental production technologies necessary for our policies, complete suitable lines exclusively for production, acquire more automated production equipment and improve product conformity.

C. Automation of factory production:

Our IE center will continue to assess the automated equipment for preparatory processing/final testing/packaging and increase UPH to reduce labor and manufacturing costs. Furthermore, it will work with RD in conducting research on design, process, and equipment to increase the speed of production.

D. Development of required talents:

We will develop multi-skilled workers and train multi-skilled managers through rotation, and we will engage in continuous review and improvement to ensure an effective system for quality assurance and management.

Operations management:

A. Ensuring sufficient working capital and expanding operating capabilities based on performance growth:

To ensure sufficient supply of funds required for the development of our business and strengthen our financial structure, we will make investments or raise funds in the capital market with our earnings of prior years.

B. Actively recruiting R&D talents:

We will attract outstanding R&D talents through industry - academia collaboration to enhance our R&D teams.

2. Long-term development plan:

Marketing strategy:

With our core competitiveness, we will build a system for global logistics management to fully satisfy the overall demand of customers and establish a permanent and stable marketing network internationally. On the basis of a stable and solid customer base, we will continue to increase the market share of our private brand products to achieve annual growth of our revenue and profit.

Production strategy:

We will relocate the LFDG factory to expand the scale of production, and we will integrate the demand for materials with concentrated purchases to lower the procurement cost. In response to the international trend in environmental protection, we will purchase pollution-free, automated precision production equipment and develop new processes to achieve the target of increased production capacity and value.

Operations management:

We will promote a global marketing system and strengthen the functions and control of our overseas business units to enhance their performance.

II. Overview of market and production/sales

(I) Market analysis

According to the industrial production statistics from the Ministry of Economic Affairs, in 2023, despite the development in digital environment and the burgeoning esports industry, which favor the layout of emerging application markets such as automotive, medical, and industrial, and the development of new products like esports and customization by operators has helped drive the performance of operators' gross profit margins, and the post-pandemic return to physical work has also stabilized demand for office and other commercial peripherals. However, due to the unfavorable operating environment in this industry and the significant decline in computer product shipments, coupled with the easing of the pandemic leading to a significant increase in domestic and international tourism demand, squeezing out other consumer spending, which is unfavorable for the growth momentum of domestic demand in the market. Furthermore, due to significant downstream customer inventory pressure, the momentum for placing orders is weak, with some orders being deferred for shipment, coupled with the relatively high base period in the same period of 2022, resulting in the sales value of Taiwan's computer peripheral equipment manufacturing industry reaching only 117.894 billion yuan from January to November 2023, a year-on-year decrease of 23.59%, indicating a significant expansion in the decline.

1. Sales territories for main products

HEC's main customers are well-known foreign manufacturers. HEC's products are primarily exported, with Asia, America, and Europe being the main markets. The regional sales figures for our company in 2023 are as follows:

2. Approximate market share

In 2023, the total shipment of PCs was 247 million units, a 13% decline from 2022. Canals believes that there are signs of recovery in the PC market, and the performance of the PC market in 2024 is worth looking forward to. In addition to the rebound in market demand, AI PCs will also become an important driving force for the growth of the PC industry. Based on the shipment volume of our company's PC products, the global market share is estimated to be approximately 4%, indicating significant room for growth. Due to our product development strategy focusing on mid to high-end models and retail products with higher unit prices, our global market share is even higher when calculated by sales value, and our average gross profit margin is also higher.

(IV) Possible effects on future financial business, and the plan in response

Press Release: Taiwan Economic Research Institutes' "2024 Taiwan Macroeconomic Forecast" In 2023, global demand for finished products weakened due to factors such as high interest rates, high inflation, and under performance of the post-pandemic Chinese economy. This led to a slowdown in manufacturing activities worldwide. Additionally, the expansion of the US-China chip ban, the Russia-Ukraine war, and the ongoing conflict in the Middle East have contributed to geopolitical tensions, impacting global economic development and social stability. In Taiwan, the deceleration in global trade expansion not only affected Taiwan's exports and external order performance but also had a consequential impact on corporate investment.

Looking ahead to the Taiwanese economy in 2024, as both the US and China face challenges in consumption and investment respectively, although other major economies such as Europe are expected to show signs of recovery, and the economic performance of emerging markets and developing economies is better than in 2023, it is still difficult to support the sluggish situation in the US and Chinese economies. Therefore, major international forecasting agencies believe that the global economic growth rate in 2024 will be slightly lower than in 2023. However, there is still an expectation of a gradual recovery in global commodity trade, which should help stabilize Taiwan's external trade performance. Overall, Taiwan's external order and export growth rates have bottomed out and are showing signs of recovery, with exports returning to positive growth in September. This recovery trend is expected to continue in 2024.

Looking to the future, the global economy will continue to face numerous challenges. Our company will continue to monitor trends in raw material prices, the economic outlook of China, and the monetary policy direction of various central banks. We will gradually introduce automation into the manufacturing processes of our factories to focus on cost control, reducing expenses and maintaining a healthy financial structure to minimize the impact.

1. Interest rate

With regard to financing, our operations are primarily financed by our own funds. As of the end of 2023, our loans amounted to approximately NTD1.3 billion at an average interest rate of 0.5% - 1.65%. In 2023, the amount of interest expense accounted for only 0.3% of the operating revenue, and the cost of loans in NTD was relatively low. Moreover, the interest income generated by our bank deposits accounts for a low share of 0.82% of the operating revenue. Thus, any interest rate change would have no significant effect on us.

Future measures in response: We will pay close attention to the information of domestic and foreign interest rates and keep close contact with the banks with which we conduct transactions in order to obtain the most preferential interest rates for deposit and loan, lower the cost of loan and use them as reference for asset arrangements.

2. Exchange rate

At least 90% of our products sold are for export. All exported products are quoted in USD, and raw materials purchased externally are also priced in USD. The risk of exchange rate change may be partially offset by purchases and sales, while it is possible for the USD positions to achieve the purpose of natural hedge. Nonetheless, as the size of operations gradually expands, any exchange rate change will still have significant effect on our operating revenue and profitability. In 2023, exchange rate fluctuations generated an exchange profit of NTD47,297 thousand that accounted for 0.58% of the operating revenue, with limited effect on us.

In order to avoid any potential effect of exchange rate fluctuations on our profits, our management of foreign exchange risks is based on the principle of stability, with the following specific measures in response:

- (1) In order to keep full track of the information of exchange rate changes and manage foreign exchange risks, we have appointed appropriate personnel to strengthen analysis of exchange rate changes. In the event of any heavy exchange rate fluctuation, we will sell part of our forward foreign exchange contracts in advance, if necessary, based on our operational needs.

- (2) We consider the information of exchange rate changes provided by the banks with which we conduct transactions and take appropriate hedge measures on our foreign currency assets and liabilities.
- (3) For quotes given by our sales department, we take into account price adjustments arising from exchange rate changes to maintain a proper profit.
- (4) We enhance the quality and added value of products and are committed to cost control in order to increase the gross profit of products and mitigate the effect of exchange rate fluctuations on the gross profit.

3. Inflation

Inflation is a change in the overall economic environment, while our measures for cost reduction are consistent policies that will not change due to inflation or deflation in the external environment. We will keep close track of changes in the prices of key raw materials and develop our medium- to long-term purchase strategies accordingly. Thus, inflation has limited effect on our operations and profits.

(II) Policies on high-risk and high-leverage investments, loaning of funds to others, endorsements/guarantees and transactions of derivatives, the main reasons for profits or losses, and future measures in response

1. We have not engaged in any high-risk and high-leverage investment during the most recent year.
2. The loaning of funds by HEC and its subsidiaries to others is primarily for the operational needs of its subsidiaries and is in accordance with the requirements of the "Regulations Governing Loaning of Funds to Others" established by HEC and its subsidiaries. Funds loaned to others as of Q1 of 2024 are detailed as follows:

(III) Future R&D plan and the estimated R&D expense to be invested:

I. Future R&D plan

1. Computer chassis:

- (1) Introducing LCD Panels to display real-time information to enhance product appeal and differentiation:

Given the rapid advancements in technology, consumers in the gaming industry have high expectations for monitors that can provide chassis information. Therefore, utilizing LCD Panels attached to the glass side panel to display real-time computer system information, time, weather, or even play high-resolution JPG or GIF files, brings customized and captivating visual effects to the chassis, attracting attention and widening the gap with competitors while increasing market segmentation.

- (2) Developing modular open-case chassis for high integration of peripheral accessories to enhance product appeal and differentiation:

As user hardware demands increase, open-case chassis offer high heat dissipation efficiency and DIY freedom compared to traditional chassis.

Through an open-case chassis with a convenient modular structure, users can assemble their unique chassis like building blocks. The modular square assembly is convenient, as all squares can be interconnected, allowing for continuous expansion of hardware assembly to accommodate various specifications and sizes.

Currently, open-case chassis on the market are either assembled from purchased parts or sold as complete units. Modular open-case chassis combine the advantages of both, allowing users to purchase chassis squares and assemble according to their needs. The design, which allows for continuous stacking and expansion, liberates users from the constraints of traditional complete unit chassis sales, offering the convenience of modular block assembly. This distinguishes them from other open-case chassis on the market and represents the future trend for DIY users.

(3) Continuing to invest in niche IPC/server products:

We will continue to strengthen our capability in the development of IPC/server products, and we will support the sales department in identifying customers with more capabilities to maximize the number of our orders and increase our sales profit. Regarding our R&D strategy, we will take the following approaches:

- A. We will keep looking for opportunities to cooperate with first-tier major manufacturers for the purposes of stabilizing our orders and further understanding the plan and demand for Rackmount Servers to enhance our R&D capabilities.
- B. We will plan and seek orders for peripheral equipment and products of IPC/servers, e.g. cabinets.
- C. Continuously seek collaboration opportunities with non-standard IPC manufacturers to develop non-standard IPC products.
- D. Continuously seek collaboration opportunities with EMS manufacturers to develop military-grade chassis products.
- E. Continuously explore partnerships with charging station operators to develop charging station products and copper bus bar products.
- F. Utilize existing infrastructure to implement NCT & mold interchangeably for production, ensuring maximum production flexibility.
- G. Utilize mold version switching to achieve completely different products from customers with minimal mold investment.
- H. Incorporate cost considerations and optimization directly into the design to make the product more conducive to existing manufacturing processes. While still maintaining product reliability as a focal point in structural design.

2. Power supplies:

- (1) In response to ESG requirements, new models are being designed, with Research and Development (RD) collaborating with factories to adopt new manufacturing process models, reducing the proportion of small board components, and streamlining pre-processing hours. Existing models are being subjected to process optimization, allowing for effective reduction of manual plug-ins on production lines, thereby achieving energy and carbon reduction goals, with continuous optimization. Conversion efficiency of power suppliers is being improved to reduce energy conversion losses, further contributing to energy and carbon reduction objectives.
  - (2) Continuous development of PSU digital functions is underway to add more topicality and uniqueness to the products. Hardware development has been gradually completed, while software and MCU firmware programs are currently in development, with customization available according to customer requirements in the future. The goal for 2024 is to achieve standardized hardware/software/firmware, enabling customers to easily acquire digital power products and enhance their brand value.
  - (3) Optimization efforts for noise are being divided into the following three parts:
    - A. Fan noise control: Introducing PWM fan control for noise reduction while maintaining competitive pricing.
    - B. System loading noise issues: Implementing active feedback control to reduce feedback speed and improve output voltage drop.
    - C. Light-load energy-saving noise section: Increasing the internal operating frequency of PSU to avoid the audible range of human ears and reduce noise within audible range.
- II. In 2024, HEC and its subsidiaries are expected to invest NTD77,995 thousand as R&D expense to achieve the R&D targets.
- (IV) Effects of changes in important domestic or foreign policies and laws on the financial business of your company, and measures in response
1. In response to amendments of the Company Act and the Securities and Exchange Act, we will review and amend our relevant regulations from time to time to remain in compliance with the law.
  2. Changes in important policies and laws of other countries are likely to cause changes in the industry and affect us. We will keep paying close attention to policies and laws that may affect our business and operations in order to give timely responses to the effects of their changes and promptly develop necessary measures to meet our operational needs.

(V) Effects of changes in technology and the industry on the financial business of your company, and measures in response

We have established a comprehensive information network framework and systems for data and file backups and protection of computer security, such as systems for anti-virus software, data backup, domain certification and web firewall. These information security protection systems are used to control information security risks, damaged files, and account authentication, prevent leakage of internal data, maintain our manufacturing activities and operations, and perform other key functions of business operations.

With the rapid development of information technology, the frequency of criminal activities using computers and relevant equipment has been increasing. Despite the aforementioned information security protection systems, we are unable to guarantee full protection of our internal computer system and network framework against cyber-attacks from any third-party invasion system. Such a cyber-attack is carried out by illegally invading the internal network and information systems of a company for the purpose of committing an illegal action such as sabotaging the network operations of the company or stealing its important confidential information. Under severe cyber-attacks from hackers, the information of our customers or our important internal information may be lost from its information and computer systems, and our production lines and operations are likely to be suspended due to such attacks.

Regarding our information security management, external auditors have checked, verified, and conducted relevant risk management activities through computer audits based on information cycles, and we have established relevant requirements concerning the four levels of documents for information security. Our employees have implemented relevant regulations and complied with relevant procedures for information operations, which are regularly checked to ensure their appropriateness and effectiveness, and we have regularly inspected user-end computer equipment on a quarterly basis. Moreover, we have stressed the importance of our employees' awareness of information security anomalies and periodic data backup, and we have regularly arranged for our employees to attend external training courses on information security.

Even though we have established a risk management mechanism and been following an effective information security management system, we are unable to guarantee HEC will not be affected by innovative information technologies and new types of virus attacks through the Internet in the face of constantly changing web security threats. A web attack may seek to steal our trade secrets, intellectual property, and key confidential information of customers, such as the proprietary information of customers or other stakeholders and the personal data of employees. External auditors have regularly reviewed our operating processes to strengthen or improve our information operations against risks of theft of our trade secrets by ill-intentioned persons. Until now, we have not discovered any significant web attack or information security incident, nor have we found any existing or possible significant negative effect on our business and operations.

- (VI) Effects of changes in corporate image on the crisis management of your company, and measures in response

We have maintained a good corporate image to enhance our status among peer companies.

- (VII) Expected benefits and possible risks of merger, and measures in response: None.

- (VIII) Expected benefits and possible risks of expansion of premises, and measures in response:

In 2023 and as of March 2024, no construction of new premises has been completed, except for amounts invested in installing new peripheral facilities of or repairing and improving current premises. Thus, there are no expected benefits, possible risks, and measures in response.

Due to the need for transfer of business within our group and additional new orders in the future, LFE has invested in expansion of the factory premises and production equipment of the subsidiary LFDG in Mainland China in order to increase production capacity and improve operational efficiency. However, without any relative increase in our revenue to cover such capital expenditure and the operating costs arising from expanded production capacity and enhanced production technologies, we will incur a negative financial effect.

We will keep focusing on future market demand to evaluate the benefit of expansion of production capacity. As of the date of publication of the annual report, the expansion of our production capacity has met our expectations.

- (IX) Risks faced during the concentration of purchases or sales, and measures in response:

1. The amount of purchase from our largest supplier in the most recent year accounts for only 6%, none so there is no risk of concentration of purchases.
2. Our important sales customers are those who have cooperated with us for a long time. We keep a close business relationship and maintain good interactions with our customers, with payments received regularly based on the length of loan period. Furthermore, as new products are being developed, we will actively reach out to new customer bases to reduce the risk of concentration of sales.

- (X) Effects and risks of substantial transfers or changes of shares held by directors, supervisors, or shareholders with a shareholding of more than 10% to your company, and measures in response:

None. We keep constant track of changes in the shareholdings of our directors and major shareholders to reduce relevant risks and ensure timely responses to relevant changes.

(XI) Effects and risks of changes in management to your company, and measures in response: None.

(XII) Material litigious, non-litigious or administrative dispute events involving the directors, supervisors, president, de facto owner, major shareholders with a shareholding of more than 10% and subordinate entities of your company that are finalized or pending, whose results are likely to cause significant effects on shareholders' equity or securities price:

None during 2023 and as of the date of publication of the annual report.

Our subsidiary LFE has received an attestation letter from the SFIPC requesting all directors and supervisors of LFE to file a claim against former director Chang Lien-Sheng for the losses of purchase of real property from Quan Te Technology and Industry Co., Ltd. in July 2013, with former chairman Chang Yung-Ta bearing joint liability. LFE has engaged an attorney to handle matters relating to such claim, which is currently in process.

Former directors Chang Lien-Sheng and Chang Yung-Ta have not participated in the operations and management of LFE, and they therefore have no influence on its finance and business.

VII. Other important matters: None.

CPA's Audit Report

To Compucase Enterprise Co., Ltd.:

Opinion

We audited the consolidated balance sheets of Compucase Enterprise Co., Ltd. and its subsidiaries (“HEC Group”) as of December 31, 2023 and 2022, their consolidated statements of comprehensive income, consolidated statements of changes in equity and consolidated statements of cash flows for the periods from January 1 to December 31, 2023 and 2022, and the notes to their consolidated financial statements (including the summary of material accounting policies).

According to the result of our audit, with respect to all material aspects, the foregoing consolidated financial statements were prepared in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, interpretations and pronouncements of interpretation approved and published by the Financial Supervisory Commission, and thus provided a fair presentation of the consolidated financial positions of HEC Group as of December 31, 2023 and 2022 and the consolidated financial performance and cash flows for the periods from January 1 to December 31, 2023 and 2022.

Basis of Audit Opinions

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Financial Statement Audit and Attestation Engagements of Certified Public Accountants and the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors’ Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Corporation and its subsidiaries in accordance with The Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of HEC Group and subsidiaries for 2023. Such matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole and, in forming our opinions thereon, we have not provided any separate opinion on these matters.

The following are the key audit matters in the consolidated financial statements of HEC Group for 2023:

Truthfulness of the recognition of revenues from certain customers

The main sources of revenues for HEC Group are revenues from the sales of computer and server casings, power supplies, computer peripherals, and medical equipment. Due to significant growth in sales revenue from specific customers in the fiscal year 2023 compared to 2022, there was also a discrepancy between the average collection days and the credit days provided. Therefore, in accordance with the requirement of the Statement of Auditing Standards that revenues be presumed as a significant risk, we have deemed the truthfulness of the recognition of the sales revenues from those certain customers to be a key audit matter.

The main audit procedures conducted by us include:

- I. Understanding and sample testing of the effectiveness of the design and implementation of internal controls related to the recognition of revenues.
- II. Sampling in the statements of sales revenues from certain customers and reviewing shipment certificates to confirm if such revenues have actually occurred.
- III. Reviewing samples of payment receipts to check if the payers match the purchasers.

Other Matters

HEC has prepared the parent-only financial statements for 2023 and 2022, with an unqualified audit report issued by us for reference.

Responsibilities of the Management and Governing Bodies for Consolidated Financial Statements

The management is responsible for preparing the financial statements with fair presentation in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, interpretations and pronouncements of interpretation approved and published by the Financial Supervisory Commission, and maintaining the necessary internal control related to preparation of the consolidated financial statements to ensure that the consolidated financial statements are free of material misstatement due to fraud or error.

During preparation of the consolidated financial statements, the management is also responsible for evaluating HEC Group's going concern ability, disclosure of relevant matters and application of the going concern basis of accounting, unless the management intends to liquidate or cease the operation of HEC Group, or there are no actually feasible solutions other than liquidation or cessation of operation.

The governing bodies (including the Audit Committee) of HEC Group are responsible for supervising the process of financial reporting.

Responsibilities of CPAs for the Audit of Consolidated Financial Statements

The purpose of our audit of the consolidated financial statements is to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements are free of material misstatements due to fraud or error, with an audit report issued thereafter. Reasonable assurance means a high degree of assurance. However, there is no guarantee that any material misstatement contained in the consolidated financial statements will be discovered during an audit conducted in accordance with relevant auditing standards. A misstatement may be due to fraud or error. A misstatement is deemed material if the individual or aggregate amount misstated is reasonably expected to affect economic decisions made by users of the consolidated financial statements.

We rely on our professional judgment and professional skepticism during an audit conducted in accordance with relevant auditing standards. We also perform the following tasks:

- I. We identify and assess the risk of misstatement in the consolidated financial statements due to fraud or error, design and implement appropriate measures in response to the assessed risk, and acquire sufficient and appropriate audit evidence as the basis of our audit opinions. Since fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omission, fraudulent statement or violation of internal control, the risk of misstatement due to fraud is higher than that due to error.
- II. We acquire necessary understanding of the internal control related to an audit to design audit procedures appropriate for the current circumstances, provided that the purpose of the foregoing is not to express opinions regarding the effectiveness of the internal control of HEC Group.
- III. We assess the appropriateness of the accounting policies adopted by the management and the reasonableness of the accounting estimates and relevant disclosures made by the management.

- IV. We have drawn a conclusion about the appropriateness of the application of the going concern basis of accounting by the management and whether there is material uncertainty in an event or circumstances which may cast significant doubt about the ability of HEC Group to remain a going concern. If any material uncertainty is deemed to exist in such event or circumstance, we must provide a reminder in the audit report for the users of the consolidated financial statements to pay attention to the relevant disclosures therein, or revise our audit opinions when any such disclosure is inappropriate. Our conclusion is based on the audit evidence obtained as of the date of this audit report. However, future events or circumstances could result in a situation where HEC Group is no longer able to remain a going concern.
- V. We assess the overall presentation, structure and contents of the consolidated financial statements (including relevant notes) and whether the consolidated financial statements provide a fair presentation of the relevant transactions and events.
- VI. We acquire sufficient and appropriate audit evidence of the financial information of the entities forming HEC Group to provide opinions regarding the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for guidance, supervision and implementation in relation to audit cases and for formation of audit opinions for HEC Group.

The matters for which we communicate with the governing bodies include the planned scope and time of audit, and our material audit findings (including the significant deficiencies of internal control identified during the audit).

We also provide a declaration to the governing bodies stating that our CPAs who are subject to independence requirements have complied with the independence requirements in the Standards of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountants, and we communicate with the governing bodies regarding all relationships and other matters (including relevant safeguard measures) which are deemed likely to affect the independence of CPAs. °

The key audit matters in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of HEC Group and subsidiaries for 2023 have been determined by us from the matters regarding which we have communicated with the governing bodies. We have specified such matters in the audit report, except where public disclosure of certain matters is prohibited by applicable laws or regulations, or where, under very exceptional circumstances, we have decided not to cover communicate certain matters in the audit report due to the reasonable expectation that any negative effect arising from such communication would be greater than the public interest enhanced.

IV. Summary of material accounting policies

(I) Statement of compliance

This consolidated financial report has been prepared in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the IFRSs which have been approved and published by the FSC.

(II) Basis of preparation

Except for financial instruments measured at fair value and net defined benefit assets (liabilities) recognized at the present value of defined benefit obligations less the fair value of plan assets, this consolidated financial report has been prepared on the basis of historical cost.

For fair value measurements, the inputs are categorized into Level 1, 2, and 3 based on their observability and priority:

1. Level 1 inputs: Quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities accessible on the measurement date (unadjusted).
2. Level 2 inputs: Inputs other than quoted prices within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (i.e. the price) or indirectly (i.e. deriving from the price).
3. Level 3 inputs: Unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

(III) Criteria for classification of assets and liabilities as current and non-current

Current assets include:

1. assets held primarily for the purpose of trading;
2. assets expected to be realized within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and
3. cash and cash equivalents (excluding those restricted to be used for exchange or settlement of liabilities within 12 months after the balance sheet date).

Current liabilities include:

1. liabilities held primarily for the purpose of trading;
2. liabilities maturing for settlement within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and
3. liabilities whose settlement cannot be unconditionally deferred for at least 12 months after the balance sheet date.

Assets or liabilities other than those classified above as current are classified as non-current.

(IV) Basis of consolidation

This consolidated financial report includes the financial reports of HEC and the entities controlled by HEC (subsidiaries). The financial reports of subsidiaries have been adjusted to ensure their accounting policies are consistent with those of the consolidated company. All transactions, account balances, profits, expenses and losses between entities have been eliminated during preparation of the consolidated financial report. The total comprehensive income of a subsidiary is attributable to the owners of HEC and non-controlling interests, even when non-controlling interests become a loss balance as a result.

Changes in the ownership interest of the consolidated company in a subsidiary that do not result in a loss of control are treated as equity transactions. The carrying amount of the consolidated company and non-controlling interests have been adjusted to reflect changes in their relative equity in the subsidiary. The difference between the adjusted amount of non-controlling interests and the fair value of considerations paid or received is directly recognized in equity and attributable to the owners of HEC.

For the details, shareholdings and scope of business of subsidiaries, see Note 12 and Tables 6 and 7.

(V) Foreign currency

For each entity preparing a financial report, a transaction in a currency other than the functional currency (a foreign currency) of the entity has been recorded by translating that currency into its functional currency at the exchange rate on the date of the transaction.

Foreign currency monetary items are translated at the closing rate on each balance sheet date. Exchange differences arising from the settlement or translation of monetary items are recognized in profit or loss of the year in which they arise.

Foreign currency non-monetary items measured at fair value are translated at the exchange rate on the date when the fair values were determined, with the resulting exchange differences recognized in profit/loss of the current year. Exchange differences arising from fair value changes recognized in other comprehensive income are recognized in other comprehensive income.

Foreign currency non-monetary items measured at historical cost are translated at the exchange rate on the date of the transaction without being retranslated.

In preparing the consolidated financial report, the assets and liabilities of foreign operations (including subsidiaries and associates whose countries of operation are different from those of HEC or which use currencies different from those used by HEC) are translated into NTD at the exchange rate on each balance sheet date. Profit, expense and loss items are translated at the average exchange rate in the current period, and the resulting exchange differences are recognized in other comprehensive income (and attributable to the owners of HEC and non-controlling interests).

(VI) Inventory

Inventories include raw materials, work in process, finished goods and goods. Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Costs and net realizable values, except for inventories of the same category, are compared on an item-by-item basis. Net realizable value means the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less the estimated cost necessary to complete the sale. The cost of inventories is calculated using the weighted average method.

(VII) Investments in associates

An associate means a company other than a subsidiary, over which the consolidated company has significant influence.

The consolidated company uses the equity method to account for investments in associates.

Under the equity method, the investment in an associate is initially recognized at cost, and the carrying amount is increased or decreased with the consolidated company's share of the profit/loss and other comprehensive income of and the profit distributed from the associate after the date of acquisition. Moreover, changes in the consolidated company's share of the equity of an associate are recognized in proportion to its shareholding.

If the consolidated company's share of losses of an associate equals to or exceeds its equity in the associate (including the carrying amount of investment in the associate under the equity method and other long-term equity de facto constituting part of the net investment of the consolidated company in the associate), it will discontinue recognizing further losses. The consolidated company recognizes additional losses and liabilities only to the extent where it has incurred legal or constructive obligations or made payments on behalf of the associate.

In evaluating impairment, we treat the entire carrying amount of investment (including goodwill) as a single asset and compare it with the recoverable and carrying amounts for an impairment test. Any impairment loss recognized is not allocated to any asset constituting part of the carrying amount of investment (including goodwill). Any reversal of impairment loss is recognized to the extent of a subsequent increase in the recoverable amount of the investment.

Profits or losses arising from upstream, downstream and side-stream transactions between the consolidated company and an associate are recognized in the consolidated financial report only to the extent where such profits or losses do not involve the equity of the consolidated company in the associate.

(VIII) Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are initially recognized at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation.

Property, plant and equipment under construction is recognized at cost less accumulated impairment losses. The cost includes professional service fees and the loan costs eligible for capitalization. Such assets will be classified to an appropriate category under property, plant and equipment and start to be accounted for in depreciation when they are completed and ready for their intended use.

Private land is not accounted for in depreciation.

Each significant part of property, plant and equipment is separately accounted for in depreciation on a straight line basis over its useful life. We review the estimated useful life, the residual value and the depreciation method at least at the end of each year and prospectively account for the effect of the application of changes in accounting estimates.

For derecognition of property, plant and equipment, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in profit or loss.

(IX) Investment property

Investment property means property held for earning rents or capital appreciation or for both purposes. It also includes land held for currently undetermined future use.

Private investment property is initially measured at cost (including transaction cost) and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Investment property is accounted for in depreciation on a straight-line basis.

(X) Goodwill

Goodwill acquired through business merger is measured with the amount of goodwill recognized on the date of acquisition as cost and subsequently at cost less accumulated impairment loss.

For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to each cash generating unit or group of cash generating units (hereinafter “cash generating unit”) expected by the consolidated company to benefit from the consolidated synergy.

An impairment test is conducted on a cash generating unit of allocated goodwill each year (and whenever there is any sign of possible impairment to the unit) by comparing the carrying amount of the unit including goodwill with its recoverable amount. Where the recoverable amount of a cash generating unit of allocated goodwill is lower than its carrying amount, the impairment loss will first decrease the carrying amount of the unit and then decrease the carrying amount of each of other assets in the unit based on the percentage of such amount. Any impairment loss will be directly recognized as loss of the current period. Impairment losses on goodwill may not be reversed in the subsequent period.

(XI) Intangible assets

Any individually acquired intangible asset with a limited useful life is initially measured at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortization. An intangible asset is amortized on a straight-line basis over its useful life. The consolidated company reviews the estimated useful life, the residual value and the amortization method at least at the end of each year and prospectively account for the effect of the application of changes in accounting estimates.

For derecognition of any intangible asset, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in the profit/loss of the current year.

(XII) Impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment property and intangible assets

The consolidated company assesses whether there is any sign of possible impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment property and intangible assets (excluding goodwill) on each balance sheet date. If any such sign of impairment exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated. If the recoverable amount of an asset is not estimable, the consolidated company estimates the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit of the asset.

The recoverable amount is the higher of the fair value less costs of sale and the value in use. If the recoverable amount of an asset or cash generating unit is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset or cash generating unit is decreased to its recoverable amount, with impairment losses recognized in profit/loss.

Where impairment losses are reversed subsequently, the carrying amount of the asset and cash generating unit is increased to the revised recoverable amount, provided that the increased carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount (less amortization or depreciation) of the asset and cash generating unit determined under the assumption that impairment losses were not recognized in prior years. Reversal of impairment losses is recognized in profit or loss.

(XIII) Financial instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized in the consolidated balance sheet when the consolidated company becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

For initial recognition of financial assets and liabilities, if financial assets or liabilities are not measured at fair value through profit or loss, they are measured at fair value plus transaction costs directly attributable to acquisition or issuance of financial assets or liabilities. Transaction costs directly attributable to acquisition or issuance of financial assets or liabilities measured at fair value through profit or loss are immediately recognized in profit or loss.

1. Financial assets

Regular transactions of financial assets are recognized and derecognized using the transaction date accounting method.

(1) Types of measurement

The consolidated company holds the following types of financial assets: Financial assets measured at fair value through profit/loss and financial assets measured at amortized cost.

A. Financial assets measured at fair value through profit/loss

Financial assets measured at fair value through profit or loss are measured at fair value, and their remeasurement profits or losses are recognized in other profits and losses. For the method used to determine fair value, see Note 29.

B. Financial assets measured at amortized cost

If the investments of the consolidated company in financial assets meet the following two criteria, they are classified as financial assets measured at amortized cost:

- a. Such investments are held under an operating model with the purpose of holding financial assets to receive contractual cash flows; and
- b. the cash flows generated by contractual provisions on specified dates are solely for the purpose of paying principal and interest on outstanding principal.

On initial recognition, financial assets measured at amortized cost (including cash and cash equivalents, notes receivable measured at amortized cost, accounts receivable, other receivables and guarantee deposits paid) are measured at the total carrying amount determined using the effective interest method less the amortized cost of any impairment loss, and any profit or loss on foreign currency exchange is recognized in profit or loss.

Interest income is calculated as the effective interest rate multiplied by the total carrying amount of financial assets, except under the following two circumstances:

- a. For any credit-impaired financial assets purchased or originated, the interest income is calculated as the credit-adjusted effective interest rate multiplied by the amortized cost of the financial assets.
- b. For any financial assets which are not credit-impaired on purchase or origination but subsequently become credit-impaired, the interest income is calculated as the effective interest rate multiplied by the amortized cost of the financial assets in the reporting period after such credit impairment.

A credit-impaired financial asset means that the issuer or debtor has incurred significant financial difficulties or defaulted, that the debtor is likely to file for bankruptcy or other financial reorganization, or that the active market of the financial asset has disappeared due to financial difficulties.

Cash equivalents include highly liquid term deposits and bonds with conditions for repurchase that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash with an insignificant risk of changes in value within 3 months from the date of acquisition and are used to meet short-term cash commitments.

(2) Impairment of financial assets

The consolidated company assesses the impairment losses on financial assets (including accounts receivable) measured at amortized cost based on expected credit losses on each balance sheet date.

A loss allowance on accounts receivable is recognized at full lifetime expected credit losses. For other financial assets, we first assess whether the credit risk has significantly increased after initial recognition. In the absence of such significant increase, the loss allowance is recognized at the 12-month expected credit losses. Where there is such significant increase, the loss allowance is recognized at full lifetime expected credit losses.

Expected credit losses are weighted average credit losses with the risks of a default occurring as the weightings. The 12-month expected credit losses represent the expected credit losses on a financial instrument resulting from possible default events within 12 months after the reporting date. Full lifetime expected credit losses represent the expected credit losses on a financial instrument from all possible default events over the life of the financial instrument.

For the purpose of internal credit risk management, the consolidated company determines that a default has occurred on financial assets under any of the following circumstances without considering the collateral it holds:

- A. Any internal or external information has indicated the debtor is unable to pay off debts.
- B. The age of accounts has exceeded 365 days, unless any reasonable and provable information indicates that a deferred criteria for default is more appropriate.

Impairment losses on all financial assets are accounted for by decreasing their carrying amounts through allowance accounts.

(3) Derecognition of financial assets

The consolidated company derecognizes a financial asset only when the contractual rights on cash flows from the asset become invalid, or when the asset has been transferred and substantially all of the risks and returns of ownership of the asset have been transferred to other companies.

For derecognition of a financial asset measured at amortized cost in its entirety, the difference between its carrying amount and the consideration received is recognized in profit/loss.

2. Equity instruments

Equity instruments issued by the consolidated company are recognized at the amount of the proceeds acquired less the cost of direct issuance.

The reacquisition of the consolidated company's own equity instruments is recognized in and deducted from equity, with its carrying amount calculated at weighted average by share type. The purchase, sale, issuance or cancellation of our own equity instruments is not recognized in profit/loss.

3. Financial liabilities

(1) Subsequent measurement

All financial liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

(2) Derecognition of financial liabilities

For derecognition of a financial liability, the difference between its carrying amount and the consideration paid (including any non-cash asset transferred or any liability assumed) is recognized in profit/loss.

4. Derivative instruments

The derivative instruments concluded by the consolidated company are forward foreign exchange contracts used to manage its exchange rate risks.

At the time of conclusion of a derivative instrument contract, the derivative instrument is initially recognized at fair value and subsequently remeasured at fair value on the balance sheet date. A derivative instrument whose fair value is positive is recognized in financial assets, while that whose fair value is negative is recognized in financial liabilities.

(XIV) Liability provision

An amount recognized as liability provision is an optimal estimate of expenses required for the settlement obligations on the balance sheet date, taking into account the risk and uncertainty of the obligations. A liability provision is measured at the estimated discounted value of cash flows of settlement obligations.

The obligation to warrant that products conform with the agreed specifications is recognized upon recognition of the revenue from relevant goods based on an optimal estimate by the management of expenses required for the obligation of settlement of the consolidated company.

(XV) Recognition of revenue

Once the consolidated company has identified the performance obligations in the contract with a customer, it allocates the transaction price to each performance obligation and recognize revenue after satisfying each performance obligation.

The revenue from sales of goods is generated through the sales of computer and server chassis, power supplies, associated computer peripherals and medical devices. At the time of fulfillment of the trading terms of products, the customer already possesses the right to price and use the goods, assumes the primary responsibility to resell them, and bears the risk of the goods being out of date. Therefore, the consolidated company recognizes revenue and accounts receivable at that point in time. The sales revenue is measured at the fair value of the transaction consideration agreed by HEC and the customer (after taking into account commercial and quantity discounts), and any payment received for goods is recognized in refund liabilities if such payment is expected to be refunded to the customer due to any discount or other allowance, while payments received in advance for sales of goods are recognized as contract liabilities.

In the case of exporting materials for processing, control over the ownership of processed goods is not transferred, and revenue is not recognized at the time of export.

(XVI) Leases

The consolidated company assesses whether a contract is (or contains) a lease on the date of conclusion of the contract.

1. The consolidated company is the lessor

A lease is classified as a finance lease if it transfers substantially all the risks and rewards incident to ownership of the asset to the lessee. All other leases are classified as operating leases. Under an operating lease, lease payments are recognized in profit on a straight-line basis over the relevant lease term.

2. The consolidated company is the lessee

Except that the lease payments for leases of low-value underlying assets and short-term leases to which the recognition exemption applies are recognized in expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term, other leases are recognized in right-of-use assets and lease liabilities on the lease commencement date.

Right-of-use assets are initially measured at cost (at the initially measured amount of lease liabilities) and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation, with adjusted remeasurement of lease liabilities.

Right-of-use assets are separately presented in the balance sheet.

Right-of-use assets are accounted for in depreciation on a straight-line basis over the period from the lease commencement date to the earlier of the date of expiration of the useful life or the lease term.

Lease liabilities are initially measured at the present value of lease payments.

If the interest rate implicit in a lease can be readily determined, the lease payments are discounted at the interest rate. Where such interest rate cannot be readily determined, the lessee's incremental borrowing rate is used.

Subsequently, lease liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, and interest expenses are amortized over the lease term. The consolidated company remeasures lease liabilities and adjusts right-of-use assets accordingly. If the carrying amount of right-of-use assets is reduced to zero, the remaining remeasured amount is recognized in profit/loss. Lease liabilities are separately presented in the consolidated balance sheet.

(XVII) Loan cost

Loan cost directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of any asset that meets the criteria will remain part of the cost of the asset until nearly all activities necessary for the asset to become available for its intended use or sale are completed.

Investment income earned from any temporary investment using any specific loan prior to the occurrence of capital expenditure that meets the criteria will be deducted from loan cost that meets the requirements for capitalization.

All loan costs other than the above will be recognized as profit/loss in the period of occurrence.

(XVIII) Employee benefits

1. Short-term employee benefits

Liabilities related to short-term employee benefits are measured at the undiscounted amount expected to be paid for services rendered by employees.

2. Post-employment benefits

Under a defined contribution plan, pensions are recognized in expense as the amount of pension contribution payable during the period when services are rendered by employees.

Under a defined benefit plan, defined benefit costs (including servicing costs, net interest and remeasurement) are calculated actuarially using the projected unit credit method. The current service cost and net interest on net defined benefit liabilities (assets) are recognized as employee benefit expenses at the time of their occurrence. Remeasurement (including actuarial profit/loss and return on plan assets less interest) is recognized as other comprehensive income and in retained earnings at occurrence, and is not subsequently reclassified as profit/loss.

Net defined benefit liabilities (assets) are a deficit (surplus) in the contribution to a defined benefit plan. Net defined benefit assets must not exceed the present value of contributions refunded from the plan or the reducible amount of future contributions.

(XIX) Share-based Payment Agreement

Employees' stock options are recognized in expenses on a straight-line basis over the vesting period based on the fair value of equity instruments on the grant date and the optimal estimated amount expected to vest, with an adjustment to capital reserves/non-controlling interests at the same time. For the transfer of treasury stocks to any employee by HEC, the grant date is the date when the number of shares purchased by the employee is confirmed.

On each balance sheet date, the consolidated company revises the estimated amount of employees' stock options expected to vest. In the event of any revision to the original estimated amount, its effect is recognized in profit/loss for the revised estimated amount to be reflected in the cumulative expense, with a relative adjustment to non-controlling interests.

(XX) Income tax

Income tax expense is the total of current income tax and deferred income tax.

1. Current income tax

The consolidated company determines the current income (loss) in accordance with the laws enacted by the jurisdiction in which it files its income tax return to calculate the income tax payable (recoverable).

The additional income tax levied on undistributed earnings calculated in accordance with the Income Tax Act of the Republic of China (Taiwan) is recognized in the year when the related resolution is adopted by a shareholders' meeting.

Adjustments to income taxes payable in prior years are recognized in current income tax.

2. Deferred income tax

Deferred income tax is calculated as the temporary difference between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities recorded in the account and the tax base for calculation of taxable income.

Deferred income tax liabilities are generally recognized in respect of all taxable temporary differences. Deferred income tax assets are recognized when it is probable that taxable income will be available for offsetting income tax arising from deductible temporary differences and offsetting of losses.

Taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates are recognized as deferred income tax liabilities, unless the consolidated company is able to control the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future. Deferred income tax assets for deductible temporary differences associated with such investments are recognized only to the extent where it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to realize the temporary differences and that they are expected to reverse in the foreseeable future.

The carrying amount of deferred income tax assets is reviewed on each balance sheet date and reduced to the extent where it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to allow the recovery all or part of the assets. Those that are not initially recognized as deferred income tax assets are also reviewed on each balance sheet date and increased to the extent where it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available in the future to allow the recovery all or part of the assets.

Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rate of the period when the liabilities or assets are expected to be settled or realized. The tax rate is based on the tax rates and laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the balance sheet date. Deferred income tax liabilities and assets are measured to reflect the tax consequences of the consolidated company on the balance sheet date arising from the methods that are expected to be used to recover or settle the carrying amount of the assets and liabilities.

3. Current and deferred income taxes

Current and deferred income taxes are recognized in profit or loss, except for those related to items recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, which are recognized separately in other comprehensive income separately or directly in equity

V. Main sources of uncertainty of material accounting judgments, estimates and assumptions

In adopting accounting policies, the management of the consolidated company must make judgments, estimates and assumptions in respect of information that is not readily available from other sources based on historical experience and other relevant factors. The actual results could differ from the estimates.

The consolidated company has taken the possible effects of the Russia–Ukraine war and relevant international sanctions on the economic environment into the consideration of material accounting estimates, including cash flow estimation, growth rate, discount rate and profitability. Its management will continue to review the estimates and basic assumptions. If a correction of the estimates affects only the current period, it is recognized in the period when it is made. If a correction of the estimates affects both the current and future periods, it is recognized in the period when it is made and in the future period.

Main source of uncertainty of estimates and assumptions – income tax

As of December 31, 2023 and 2022, the effects of income tax of taxable temporary differences relating to investments in subsidiaries without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities amounted to NTD525,674 thousand and NTD444,508 thousand respectively. With expected remittance of earnings in the future, reversal of taxable temporary differences and recognition of material deferred income tax liabilities are likely to occur with their recognition as income tax expenses over the period of occurrence.

The average loan period of the consolidated company for sales of goods is 1 to 4 months, with zero accrued on accounts receivable. In order to mitigate credit risk, the management of the consolidated company has designated special teams for determination of credit lines, approval of loans and other monitoring procedures to ensure that appropriate actions are taken to recover overdue payments receivable. Furthermore, the consolidated company reviews the recoverable amounts of payments receivable separately on the balance sheet date to ensure that irrecoverable payments receivable have been accounted for in appropriate impairment losses. Accordingly, the management of the consolidated company considers that its credit risks have reduced significantly.

The consolidated company recognizes the loss allowance for accounts receivable based on the full lifetime expected credit losses. The full lifetime expected credit losses are calculated using a provision matrix with consideration of the default history and current financial condition of a customer and the economic trend of the industry. Since the historical experience of the consolidated company in credit losses has shown no significant difference in the types of loss between distinct customer bases, the provision matrix has made no further distinction between the customer bases and has only set the expected credit loss rate based on the age of accounting of accounts receivable.

If there is any evidence indicating that the counterparty is faced with severe financial difficulties and that the consolidated company is not able to reasonably expect any recoverable amount, e.g. the counterparty is undergoing liquidation, the consolidated company directly writes off the relevant accounts receivable, and it will continue to pursue recourse actions. All amounts recovered through recourse are recognized in profit/loss.

Notes receivable

As of December 31, 2023 and 2022, none of the notes receivable of the consolidated company were overdue, and no expected credit losses were set aside for notes receivable.

Accounts receivable

The consolidated company's loss allowances for accounts receivable measured using the provision matrix are as follows:

XXI. Post-employment benefit plans

(I) Defined contribution plan

The pension system under the “Labor Pension Act,” as applied by HEC and domestic subsidiaries under the consolidated company, is a defined contribution plan managed by the government. A pension equal to 6% of an employee’s monthly salary is allocated and deposited into a special personal account at the Bureau of Labor Insurance.

The employees of a subsidiary of the consolidated company in Mainland China are participants in a retirement benefit plan operated by the relevant local government of Mainland China. The subsidiary is required to contribute a certain percentage of its salary cost as funding to the retirement benefit plan, while the obligations of the consolidated company toward such government-operated retirement benefit plan only consist of the contribution of a certain amount.

For any other foreign subsidiary, a defined contribution plan is applied, where a pension is allocated monthly based on a certain amount of percentage in accordance with local regulations and placed under the management of a professional local agency.

(II) Defined benefit plan

The pension system applied to HEC and domestic subsidiaries under the consolidated company in accordance with the “Labor Pension Act” is a defined benefit plan managed by the government. The pension paid to an employee is calculated based on the length of his/her service and the average salary over the 6 months prior to the approved date of his/her retirement. We allocate a fixed amount each month as an employee’s pension and deposit it into a special account at the Bank of Taiwan in the name of the Labor Pension Fund Supervisory Committee. If, by the end of each year, the estimated balance in the special account is insufficient for payments to employees who are expected to meet the criteria for retirement in the next year, we will allocate the difference in a lump sum by the end of March next year. The special account is managed by the Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor, and the consolidated company does not have any right to influence the investment management strategies. Since the subsidiary LFE under the consolidated company has allocated sufficient pensions, the competent authority has given approval for suspending the contribution of pensions during April 2016 to February 2022.

The amounts of defined benefit plan included in the consolidated balance sheet are as follows:

Due to the pension system under the “Labor Standards Act,” the consolidated company is exposed to the following risks:

1. Investment risk: The Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor has, for own discretionary use or through contracted management, invested the labor pension funds into domestic (foreign) equity and debt securities and bank deposits, even though the distributable amount of the consolidated company’s plan assets is a profit calculated at an interest rate no less than that for a 2-year time deposit with a local bank.
2. Interest rate risk: A decrease in the interest rates of government bonds will increase the present value of defined benefit obligations, but will also increase the return on debt investments in plan assets. Both increases have a partial offsetting effect against the impact of net defined benefit liabilities.

3. Salary risk: The present value of defined benefit obligations is calculated based on the future salary of the plan participants. As a result, an increase in the salary of the plan participants will raise the present value of defined benefit obligations °

The present value of the defined benefit obligations of the consolidated company is calculated actuarially by a qualified actuary. The material assumptions on the date of measurement are as follows:

|                               | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Discount rate                 | 1.25% ~ 1.3%             | 1.25% ~ 1.4%             |
| Expected salary increase rate | 2.25% ~ 2.5%             | 2.25% ~ 2.5%             |

In the event of reasonably possible changes in the material actuarial assumptions, the resulting increase (decrease) in the present value of defined benefit obligations where all other assumptions remain the same is as follows:

|                               | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Discount rate                 |                          |                          |
| Increase by 0.25%             | ( $ 247 )        | ( $ 258 )        |
| Decrease by 0.25%             | $ 257            | $ 267            |
| Expected salary increase rate |                          |                          |
| Increase by 0.25% ~ 1%        | $ 263            | $ 276            |
| Decrease by 0.25% ~ 1%        | ( $ 253 )        | ( $ 264 )        |

Since the actuarial assumptions may be correlated and changes in only a single assumption are unlikely, the sensitivity analysis above may not reflect actual changes in the present value of defined benefit obligations.

|                       | $ 441,767 | $ 425,456 |

Note 1: This category of capital reserves may be used to offset losses, or to distribute cash dividends or be contributed to the share capital if HEC has no losses, provided that such contribution to the share capital does not exceed a certain percentage of the paid-in share capital each year.

Note 2: This category of capital reserves are the effects of equity transactions recognized due to changes in the equity of subsidiaries where HEC has not actually acquired or disposed of the equity of subsidiaries.

(III) Retained earnings and dividend policy

According to the earnings distribution policy under the Articles of Incorporation, where HEC has earnings in the final accounts of a fiscal year, it shall set aside 10% thereof as legal reserves after paying taxes and offsetting losses as legally required, unless the amount of such legal reserves equals or exceeds HEC's paid-in capital. The remaining amount of the foregoing earnings shall be set aside or reversed as special reserves in accordance with the law. If there are still any remaining earnings, the Board of Directors shall, depending on the operating performance, retain such earnings plus the accumulated undistributed earnings, and shall prepare a proposal for distribution of earnings and submit the proposal to a shareholders' meeting for a resolution on distribution of bonuses to shareholders. For the policy of distribution of the remuneration for employees and directors in the Articles of Incorporation, see Note 24(7) "Remuneration for employees and directors."

In consideration of its future investment funding needs and its financial structure, HEC has adopted a balanced and stable dividend policy for the purposes of sustainable management and long-term development, with shareholders' interests and other factors taken into account. Each year, no less than 10% of the distributable earnings shall be appropriated for distribution of bonuses to shareholders. No such distribution is required if the cumulative distributable earnings amount to less than 2% of the paid-in share capital. For distribution of dividends in any future year, it is expected that the amount of cash dividends distributed will be no less than 10% of the total dividends distributed in that year, and that such dividends will, based on the investment funding needs and the level of dilution of earnings per share, be distributed in stock or cash, as appropriate.

Legal reserves may be used to offset losses. Where HEC has no losses and if legal reserves exceed the total paid-in capital by 25%, the excess amount may be contributed to the share capital or distributed in cash.

At the annual shareholders' meetings held in June 2023 and 2022, the proposals for distribution of earnings in 2022 and 2021 were approved as follows:

|                                       | 2022          | 2021       |

| Cash dividends                        | $ 226,571    | $ 226,571 |
| Dividends per share (NTD)             | $ 2.03       | $ 2.0     |

On March 13, 2024, the Board of Directors proposed distribution of earnings in 2023 as follows:

|                            | Distribution of earnings | Dividends per share (NTD) |
|----------------------------|--------------------------|---------------------------|
| Legal reserves             | $ 60,584                |                           |

The proposal for distribution of earnings in 2023 will be subject to a resolution of the 2024 annual shareholders' meeting.

(VI) Consolidated amount of temporary differences relating to investments in subsidiaries without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities

To meet the need of foreign investee companies for working capital, the management of the consolidated company has decided that the undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries will be first used for permanent reinvestments without any distribution of profit. Such temporary differences are unlikely to be reversed in the foreseeable future.

As of December 31, 2023 and 2022, the taxable temporary differences relating to the foregoing investments in subsidiaries without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities amounted to NTD2,628,370 thousand and NTD2,222,541 thousand respectively.

(VII) Approval of income tax

The returns of profit-seeking enterprise income tax of HEC and the domestic subsidiaries LFE, FCC and OPT up until 2021 were approved by the tax authority.

XXVI. Earnings per share

The earning and the weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of EPS are as follows:

Net profit in the current year

|  | 2023              | 2022              |
|--|-------------------|-------------------|
| Net profit attributable to the owners of HEC | $ 605,857 | $ 368,776 |

Number of shares

|  | 2023                  | 2022           |
|--|-----------------------|----------------|
|  | Unit: thousand shares |                |
| Basic EPS  |                       |                |
| Starting number of outstanding common shares                                 | 113,286               | 113,286        |
| Less: Weighted average number of treasury shares                             | ( 1,375 )      | ( 808 ) |
| Weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of basic EPS   | 111,911               | 112,478        |
| Effect of dilutive potential common shares:                                  |                       |                |
| Remuneration for employees   | 1,096          | 1,391   |
| Weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of diluted EPS | 113,007        | 113,869 |

Where the consolidated company chooses to distribute the remuneration for employees in shares or cash, the diluted EPS is calculated by adding the number of dilutive potential common shares to the weighted average number of outstanding shares under the assumption that the remuneration for employees will be distributed in shares. The dilutive effect of the potential common shares will continue to be taken into account when calculating the diluted EPS before a resolution is adopted in the next year on the number of shares distributable as the remuneration for employees.

XXVII. Agreement on share-based payment

(I) Transfer treasury shares to employees.

In April 2023, Employees' stock options were issued for 1,000 thousand treasury shares to recipients including the employees of HEC and subsidiaries, with their vesting criteria being immediate vesting.

The following is the information of employees' stock options for treasury shares:

| Employees' stock options for treasury shares  | 2023                   |                                       |
|---|------------------------|---------------------------------------|

| Granted in the current year   | 1,000                  | 29.57                                 |
| Issued in the current year  | ( 1,000 )              | 29.57                                 |
| Outstanding at end of the year  | -                      |                                       |

Regarding the employees' stock options for treasury shares granted in April 2023, we have used the Black-Scholes pricing model adopting the following parameters:

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| Transfer price                           | NTD 29.57 |
| Expected lifetime                        | 14days    |
| Share price on the date of granting      | NTD 45.95 |
| Expected rate of share price fluctuation | 48.744%   |
| Expected dividend yield                  | 0%        |
| Risk-free interest rate                  | 1.10%     |

The expected rate of share price fluctuation is based on the annualized standard deviation of the daily returns during April 6, 2023 to April 25, 2023. For the full year of 2023, the recognized remuneration cost was NTD16,400 thousand, and the capital reserves generated by transferring treasury shares to employees amounted to NTD16,311 thousand.

(II) Subsidiaries issue employee stock options

In June 2022, the subsidiary OPT issued employees' stock options for 2,870 thousand shares, the recipients of which included the employees of HEC and OPT. The stock options are valid for three years, and a holder of their warrants may, on each anniversary of the date of their issuance, exercise a certain percentage of such options granted.

| Employees' stock options  | 2023                         |   | 2022                         |   |

Regarding the employees' stock options granted by OPT to the employees of HEC and OPT in June 2022, OPT used the Black-Scholes pricing model adopting the following parameters:

|                         |                 |
|-------------------------|-----------------|
| Price on the grant date | NTD 11.7        |
| Expected lifetime       | 2 to 2.5 years  |
| Expected dividend yield | 0%              |
| Risk-free interest rate | 1.212% ~ 1.216% |

For the years 2023 and 2022, the consolidated company recognized NTD2,112 thousand and NTD1,988 thousand, respectively, as remuneration cost.

XXVIII. Capital risk management

The chief management of the consolidated company periodically reviews its capital structure, including consideration of the costs and relevant risks of all categories of capital. Therefore, the consolidated company engages in capital management for the purpose of ensuring the availability of required financial resources and operational plans to meet the needs for working capital, capital expenditure, R&D expense, debt repayment and dividend expense in the next 12 months.

XXIX. Financial instruments

- (I) Fair value information – financial instruments not measured at fair value
The management of the consolidated company considers the carrying value of financial assets and liabilities not measured at fair value to be near its fair value.
- (II) Fair value information – financial instruments measured at fair value on a recurring basis

Note 1: The balance included the financial assets measured at amortized cost, such as cash and cash equivalents, notes and accounts receivable, other receivables (excluding refundable taxes receivable), financial assets measured at amortized cost and guarantee deposits paid.

Note 2: The balance includes financial liabilities measured at amortized cost, such as short-term loans, accounts payable (including related parties), other payables and deposits received.

(IV) Purposes and policies of financial risk management

The primary financial instruments of the consolidated company include cash and cash equivalents, payments receivable, payments and loans payable. The financial management department of the consolidated company is responsible for providing services to business units, planning and coordinating operations for entry into domestic and international financial markets, and monitoring and managing financial risks in relation to the operations of the consolidated company using internal risk reports that analyze risk exposure based on the level and scope of risks. Such risks include market risks (including exchange rate risk, interest rate risk and other price risks), credit risk and liquidity risk.

1. Market risks

The risks of change in foreign exchange rates (see (1) “Exchange rate risk” below) and in interest rates (see (2) below) are the major financial risks borne by the consolidated company as a result of its operating activities.

There has been no change in exposure of the consolidated company to the market risks of financial instruments or our methods for management and measurement of such exposure.

(1) Exchange rate risk

The consolidated company engages in transactions of the sale and purchase of goods denominated in foreign currencies, exposing it to the risk of change in foreign exchange rates. For the management of exposure of the consolidated company to exchange rate risk, forward foreign exchange contracts are used to manage risks to the extent permitted by policies.

For the carrying amounts of monetary assets and liabilities of the consolidated company denominated in non-functional currencies on the balance sheet date (including the monetary items denominated in non-functional currencies and written off in the consolidated financial statements), see Note 33.

Sensitivity analysis

Sensitivity analysis mainly focuses on calculation of the monetary items of foreign currencies on the end date of the financial reporting period. The consolidated company is affected primarily by fluctuations in the exchange rates of USD.

The following table describes in detail the sensitivity analysis of the consolidated company in the event where the exchange rate of the functional currency to USD increases or decreases by 1%. 1% is the sensitivity rate used in an internal report to the primary management of the group regarding exchange rate risk, and also represents the range of reasonable possible change in foreign exchange rates as assessed by its management. Sensitivity analysis only focuses on the outstanding monetary items of foreign currencies and makes adjustment to their translation at end of year with an exchange rate change of 1%. The positive number in the following table means the amount of increase in the pre-tax net profit when the functional currency depreciates by 1% against each foreign currency. When the functional currency appreciates by 1% against each foreign currency, the effect on the pre-tax net profit is a negative number of the same amount.

| USD | $ 22,311 | $ 24,293 |

1.

(2) Interest rate risk

The interest rate risk exposure occurs due to the borrowing of funds by the consolidated company at both fixed and floating interest rates. The consolidated company manages interest rate risks by maintaining a proper combination of fixed and floating interest rates.

The carrying amounts of the financial assets and liabilities of the consolidated company exposed to the interest rate risk on the balance sheet date are as follows:

|                                      | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
| With cash flowinterest rate risk |                   |                   |
| Financial assets                     | $ 1,394,342      | $ 1,301,747      |
| Financial liabilities                | 700,500           | 967,000           |

Assessment by the consolidated company has indicated no significant fair value risk with regard to bonds with conditions for repurchase, time bank deposits with fixed interest rate, short-term loans and lease liabilities held by it.

Sensitivity analysis

The following sensitivity analysis is based on the interest rate risk exposure of non-derivative instruments on the balance sheet date. The analysis focuses on assets and liabilities with floating interest rates under the assumption that the amounts of outstanding assets and liabilities on the balance sheet date are outstanding over the reporting period. A 1% increase or decrease in interest rate is the rate of change used in an internal report to the group's primary management regarding interest rate, and also represents the range of reasonable possible change in interest rate as assessed by its management.

If the interest rate increases/decrease by 1% with all other variables remaining constant, the pre-tax net profits of the consolidated company in 2023 and 2022 would increase/decrease by NTD6,938 thousand and NTD3,347 thousand respectively, mainly due to the interest rate risk exposure of the cash flows of its deposits and loans with floating interest rate.

Credit risk

Credit risk means the risk of financial loss incurred by the consolidated company as a result of a delay by the counterparty in fulfilling contractual obligations. The greatest credit risk exposure of financial losses the consolidated company is likely to incur as of the balance sheet date due to failure of the counterparty to fulfill its obligations and provision of financial guarantees by the consolidated company primarily arises from the carrying amount of financial assets recognized in the consolidated balance sheet.

The counterparties of the consolidated company are all companies with good credit, so there is unlikely to be any significant credit risk. The consolidated company will continue to assess the financial conditions of the customers from which accounts are receivable.

In the balance of accounts receivable, the total accounts receivable from customers with a significant concentration are as follows:

|         | December 31, 2023 |    | December 31, 2022 |    |
|---------|-------------------|----|-------------------|----|
|         | Amount            | %  | Amount            | %  |
| Group A | $ 1,075,824      | 45 | $ 567,594        | 28 |

Liquidity risk

The consolidated company manages and maintains cash and cash equivalents for sufficient positions to sustain the group's operations and mitigate the effects of fluctuations in cash flows, and it continues to maintain sufficient undisbursed amounts for loan commitments.

Bank loans are an important source of liquidity for the consolidated company. For undisbursed financing amounts of the consolidated company, see the description in “(3) Financing limit” below.

(1) Table of liquidity and interest rate risks of non-derivative financial liabilities

The analysis of maturity of the remaining contracts of non-derivative financial liabilities is prepared based on the earliest date when the consolidated company is likely to be required to make repayment and the undiscounted cash flow of financial liabilities (including principal and estimated interest). Thus, any bank loan for which the consolidated company is likely to be required to make immediate repayment is listed within the earliest period in the following table, regardless of the probability of the bank enforcing its rights immediately, and the analysis of maturity of other non-derivative financial liabilities is prepared based on the agreed repayment date. For the cash flow of interest paid at a floating interest rate, the undiscounted amount of interest is derived according to the yield curve on the balance sheet date.

CPA's Audit Report

To Compucase Enterprise Co., Ltd.:

Audit opinions

We have audited the accompanying standalone financial statements of Compucase Enterprise Co., Ltd. (the "Corporation"), which comprise the standalone balance sheets as of December 31, 2023 and 2022, the standalone statements of comprehensive income, changes in equity and cash flows for the years then ended, and notes to the standalone financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies (collectively referred to as the "standalone financial statements").

In our opinion, the accompanying standalone financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the standalone financial position of the Corporation as of December 31, 2023 and 2022, its standalone financial performance and its standalone cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Financial Statement Audit and Attestation Engagements of Certified Public Accountants and the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Standalone Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Corporation in accordance with The Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the standalone financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2023. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the standalone financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matters of the Corporation's standalone financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2023 are stated as follows:

Truthfulness of the recognition of revenues from certain customers

The main sources of revenues for the Corporation are revenues from the sales of computer chassis and power supplies. Due to significant growth in sales revenue from specific customers in the fiscal year 2023 compared to 2022, there was also a discrepancy between the average collection days and the credit days provided. Therefore, in accordance with the requirement of the Statement of Auditing Standards that revenues be presumed as a significant risk, we have deemed the truthfulness of the recognition of the sales revenues from those certain customers to be a key audit matter.

The main audit procedures conducted by us include:

- I. Understanding and sample testing of the effectiveness of the design and implementation of internal controls related to the recognition of revenues.
- II. Sampling in the statements of sales revenues from certain customers and reviewing shipment certificates to confirm if such revenues have actually occurred.
- III. Reviewing samples of payment receipts to check if the payers match the purchasers.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Standalone Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the standalone financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of the Corporation's financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the standalone financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Corporation or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including the audit committee, are responsible for overseeing the Corporation's financial reporting process.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Standalone Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the standalone financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these standalone financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the standalone financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Corporation's internal control.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the standalone financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Corporation to cease to continue as a going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the standalone financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the standalone financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
6. Obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of entities or business activities within the Corporation to express an opinion on the standalone financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the standalone financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2023 and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

IV. Summary of material accounting policies

(I) Statement of compliance

This standalone financial report has been prepared in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers.

(II) Basis of preparation

Except for financial instruments measured at fair value and net defined benefit assets recognized at the present value of defined benefit obligations less the fair value of plan assets, this standalone financial report has been prepared on the basis of historical cost.

For fair value measurements, the inputs are categorized into Level 1, 2, and 3 based on their observability and priority:

1. Level 1 inputs: Quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities accessible on the measurement date (unadjusted).
2. Level 2 inputs: Inputs other than quoted prices within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (i.e. the price) or indirectly (i.e. deriving from the price).
3. Level 3 inputs: Unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

In preparing this standalone financial report, we have adopted the equity method for investments in subsidiaries and associates. To ensure the profit/loss, other comprehensive income and equity for the current year in this standalone financial report are identical to the profit/loss, other comprehensive income and equity for the current year attributable to our owners in our consolidated financial report, the differences in accounting treatments on standalone and consolidated bases are presented as adjustments to “investments accounted for using the equity method,” “share of profit/loss of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using the equity method,” “share of other comprehensive income of subsidiaries and associates accounted for using the equity method” and other related items of equity.

(III) Criteria for classification of assets and liabilities as current and non-current

Current assets include:

1. assets held primarily for the purpose of trading;
2. assets expected to be realized within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and
3. cash and cash equivalents (excluding those restricted to be used for exchange or settlement of liabilities within 12 months after the balance sheet date).

Current liabilities include:

1. liabilities held primarily for the purpose of trading;
2. liabilities maturing for settlement within 12 months after the balance sheet date; and
3. liabilities whose settlement cannot be unconditionally deferred for at least 12 months after the balance sheet date.

Assets or liabilities other than those classified above as current are classified as non-current.

(VII) Foreign currency

In preparing this financial report, a transaction in a currency other than our functional currency (a foreign currency) has been recorded by translating that currency into our functional currency at the exchange rate on the date of the transaction.

Foreign currency monetary items are translated at the closing rate on each balance sheet date. Exchange differences arising from the settlement or translation of monetary items are recognized in profit or loss of the year in which they arise.

Foreign currency non-monetary items measured at historical cost are translated at the exchange rate on the date of the transaction without being retranslated.

In preparing the standalone financial report, the assets and liabilities of foreign operations (including subsidiaries and associates whose countries of operation are different from those of HEC or which use currencies different from those used by HEC) are translated into NTD at the exchange rate on each balance sheet date. Profit, expense and loss items are translated at the average exchange rate in the current period, and the resulting exchange differences are recognized in other comprehensive income.

(VIII) Inventory

Inventories include goods, raw materials, work in process and finished goods. Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Costs and net realizable values, except for inventories of the same category, are compared on an item-by-item basis. Net realizable value means the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less the estimated cost necessary to complete the sale. The cost of inventories is calculated using the weighted average method.

(IX) Investments in subsidiaries

We use the equity method to account for investments in subsidiaries.

A subsidiary means an entity controlled by us.

Under the equity method, the investment in a subsidiary is initially recognized at cost, and the carrying amount is increased or decreased with our share of the profit or loss and other comprehensive income of and the profit distributed from the subsidiary after the date of acquisition. Additionally, changes in our share of other equity of a subsidiary are recognized in proportion to our shareholding.

Changes in our ownership interest in a subsidiary that do not result in a loss of control are treated as equity transactions. The difference between the carrying amount of an investment and the fair value of consideration paid or received is directly recognized in equity.

If our share of losses of a subsidiary equals to or exceeds our equity in the subsidiary (including the carrying amount of the subsidiary under the equity method and other long-term equity de facto constituting part of our net investment in the subsidiary), we will continue to recognize losses in proportion to our shareholding.

In evaluating impairment, we consider the cash generating units in the financial report on an overall basis and compare their recoverable amounts with their carrying amounts. If the recoverable amount of an asset is increased subsequently, reversal of impairment losses is recognized in profit, provided that the carrying amount of the asset after reversal of impairment losses do not exceed the carrying amount of the asset less the amount accounted for in amortization, without recognition of impairment losses. Impairment losses attributable to goodwill should not be reversed in the subsequent period.

Unrealized profits or losses from downstream transactions between us and a subsidiary are eliminated in the standalone financial report. Profits or losses arising from upstream and side-stream transactions between us and a subsidiary are recognized in the standalone financial report only to the extent where such profits or losses do not involve our equity in the subsidiary.

(X) Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are initially measured and recognized at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation.

Each significant part of property, plant and equipment is separately accounted for in depreciation on a straight-line basis over its useful life. We review the estimated useful life, the residual value and the depreciation method at least at the end of each year and prospectively account for the effect of the application of changes in accounting estimates.

For derecognition of property, plant and equipment, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in current profit/loss.

(XI) Investment property

Investment property means property held for earning rents or capital appreciation or for both purposes. It also includes land held for currently undetermined future use.

Private investment property is initially measured at cost (including transaction cost) and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Investment property is accounted for in depreciation on a straight-line basis.

For derecognition of investment property, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in profit or loss.

(IV) Intangible assets

1. Individual acquisition

Any individually acquired intangible asset with a limited useful life is initially measured at cost and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortization. An intangible asset is amortized on a straight-line basis over its useful life. We review the estimated useful life, the residual value and the amortization method at least at the end of each year and prospectively account for the effect of the application of changes in accounting estimates.

2. Derecognition

For derecognition of any intangible asset, the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset is recognized in the profit/loss of the current year.

(V) Impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment property and intangible assets

We assess whether there is any sign of possible impairment of property, plant and equipment, right-of-use assets, investment property and intangible assets on each balance sheet date. If any such sign of impairment exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated. If the recoverable amount of an asset is not estimable, we estimate the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit of the asset.

The recoverable amount is the higher of the fair value less costs of sale and the value in use. If the recoverable amount of an asset or cash generating unit is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset or cash generating unit is decreased to its recoverable amount, with impairment losses recognized in profit/loss.

Where impairment losses are reversed subsequently, the carrying amount of the asset and cash generating unit is increased to the revised recoverable amount, provided that the increased carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount (less amortization or depreciation) of the asset and cash generating unit determined under the assumption that impairment losses were not recognized in prior years. Reversal of impairment losses is recognized in profit or loss.

(VI) Financial instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized in the standalone balance sheet when we become a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

For initial recognition of financial assets and liabilities, if financial assets or liabilities are not measured at fair value through profit or loss, they are measured at fair value plus transaction costs directly attributable to acquisition or issuance of financial assets or liabilities. Transaction costs directly attributable to acquisition or issuance of financial assets or liabilities measured at fair value through profit or loss are immediately recognized in profit or loss.

1. Financial assets

Regular transactions of financial assets are recognized and derecognized using the transaction date accounting method.

(1) Types of measurement

We hold the following types of financial assets: Financial assets measured at amortized cost.

Financial assets measured at amortized cost

If our investments in financial assets meet the following two criteria, they are classified as financial assets measured at amortized cost:

- A. Such investments are held under an operating model with the purpose of holding financial assets to receive contractual cash flows; and
- B. the cash flows generated by contractual provisions on specified dates are solely for the purpose of paying principal and interest on outstanding principal.

On initial recognition, financial assets measured at amortized cost (including cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable measured at amortized cost (including related parties), other receivables (including related parties) and guarantee deposits paid) are measured at the total carrying amount determined using the effective interest method less the amortized cost of any impairment loss, and any profit or loss on foreign currency exchange is recognized in profit/loss.

Interest income is calculated as the effective interest rate multiplied by the total carrying amount of financial assets, except under the following two circumstances:

- A. For any credit-impaired financial assets purchased or originated, the interest income is calculated as the credit-adjusted effective interest rate multiplied by the amortized cost of the financial assets.
- B. For any financial assets which are not credit-impaired on purchase or origination but subsequently become credit-impaired, the interest income is calculated as the effective interest rate multiplied by the amortized cost of the financial assets in the reporting period after such credit impairment.

A credit-impaired financial asset means that the issuer or debtor has incurred significant financial difficulties or defaulted, that the debtor is likely to file for bankruptcy or other financial reorganization, or that the active market of the financial asset has disappeared due to financial difficulties.

Cash equivalents include highly liquid term deposits and bonds with conditions for repurchase that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash with an insignificant risk of changes in value within 3 months from the date of acquisition and are used to meet short-term cash commitments.

(2) Impairment of financial assets

We assess the impairment losses on financial assets (including accounts receivable) measured at amortized cost based on expected credit losses on each balance sheet date.

A loss allowance on accounts receivable is recognized at full lifetime expected credit losses. For other financial assets, we first assess whether the credit risk has significantly increased after initial recognition. In the absence of such significant increase, the loss allowance is recognized at the 12-month expected credit losses. Where there is such significant increase, the loss allowance is recognized at full lifetime expected credit losses.

Expected credit losses are weighted average credit losses with the risks of a default occurring as the weightings. The 12-month expected credit losses represent the expected credit losses on a financial instrument resulting from possible default events within 12 months after the reporting date. Full lifetime expected credit losses represent the expected credit losses on a financial instrument from all possible default events over the life of the financial instrument.

For the purpose of internal credit risk management, we determine that a default has occurred on financial assets under any of the following circumstances without considering the collateral we hold:

- A. Any internal or external information has indicated the debtor is unable to pay off debts.
- B. The age of accounts has exceeded 365 days, unless any reasonable and provable information indicates that a deferred criteria for default is more appropriate.

Impairment losses on all financial assets are accounted for by decreasing their carrying amounts through allowance accounts.

(3) Derecognition of financial assets

We derecognize a financial asset only when the contractual rights on cash flows from the asset become invalid, or when the asset has been transferred and substantially all of the risks and returns of ownership of the asset have been transferred to other companies.

For derecognition of a financial asset measured at amortized cost in its entirety, the difference between its carrying amount and the consideration received is recognized in profit/loss.

2. Equity instruments

Equity instruments issued by HEC are recognized at the amount of the proceeds acquired less the cost of direct issuance.

The reacquisition of our own equity instruments is recognized in and deducted from equity, with its carrying amount calculated at weighted average by share type. The purchase, sale, issuance or cancellation of our own equity instruments is not recognized in profit/loss.

3. Financial liabilities

(1) Subsequent measurement

Our financial liabilities are all measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

(2) Derecognition of financial liabilities

For derecognition of a financial liability, the difference between its carrying amount and the consideration paid (including any non-cash asset transferred or any liability assumed) is recognized in profit/loss.

(VII) Liability provision

An amount recognized as liability provision is an optimal estimate of expenses required for the settlement obligations on the balance sheet date, taking into account the risk and uncertainty of the obligations. A liability provision is measured at the estimated discounted value of cash flows of settlement obligations.

The obligation to warrant that products conform with the agreed specifications is recognized upon recognition of the revenue from relevant goods based on an optimal estimate by the management of expenses required for the obligation of settlement of HEC.

(VIII) Recognition of revenue

Once we have identified the performance obligations in the contract with a customer, we allocate the transaction price to each performance obligation and recognize revenue after satisfying each performance obligation.

The revenue from sales of goods is generated through the sales of computer chassis, power supplies and associated computer peripherals. At the time of fulfillment of the trading terms for products, the customer already possesses the right to price and use the goods, assumes the primary responsibility to resell them, and bears the risk of the goods being out-of-date. Therefore, we recognize revenue and accounts receivable at that point in time, while payments received in advance for sales of goods are recognized as contract liabilities.

In the case of exporting materials for processing, control over the ownership of processed goods is not transferred, and revenue is not recognized at the time of export.

(IX) Leases

We assess whether a contract is (or contains) a lease on the date of conclusion of the contract.

1. We are the lessor

A lease is classified as a finance lease if it transfers substantially all the risks and rewards incident to ownership of the asset to the lessee. All other leases are classified as operating leases.

Under an operating lease, lease payments less the lease incentives are recognized in profit on a straight-line basis over the relevant lease term.

2. We are the lessee

Except that the lease payments for leases of low-value underlying assets and short-term leases to which the recognition exemption applies are recognized in expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term, other leases are recognized in right-of-use assets and lease liabilities on the lease commencement date.

Right-of-use assets are initially measured at cost (at the initially measured amount of lease liabilities) and subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation, with adjusted remeasurement of lease liabilities. Right-of-use assets are separately presented in the balance sheet.

Right-of-use assets are accounted for in depreciation on a straight-line basis over the period from the lease commencement date to the earlier of the date of expiration of the useful life or the lease term.

Lease liabilities are initially measured at the present value of lease payments (fixed payments). If the interest rate implicit in a lease can be readily determined, the lease payments are discounted at the interest rate. Where such interest rate cannot be readily determined, the lessee's incremental borrowing rate is used.

Subsequently, lease liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, and interest expenses are amortized over the lease term. Lease liabilities are separately presented in the balance sheet.

(X) Loan cost

A loan cost is recognized as profit/loss in the period of occurrence.

(XI) Employee benefits

1. Short-term employee benefits

Liabilities related to short-term employee benefits are measured at the undiscounted amount expected to be paid for services rendered by employees.

2. Post-employment benefits

Under a defined contribution plan, pensions are recognized in expense as the amount of pension contribution payable during the period when services are rendered by employees.

Under a defined benefit plan, defined benefit costs (including servicing costs, net interest and remeasurement) are calculated actuarially using the projected unit credit method. The current service cost and net interest on net defined benefit liabilities are recognized as employee benefit expenses at the time of their occurrence. Remeasurement (including actuarial profit/loss and return on plan assets less interest) is recognized as other comprehensive income and in retained earnings at occurrence, and is not subsequently reclassified as profit/loss.

Net defined benefit liabilities are a deficit in the contribution to a defined benefit plan.

(XII) Share-based Payment Agreement

Employees' stock options are recognized in expenses on a straight-line basis over the vesting period based on the fair value of equity instruments on the grant date and the optimal estimated amount expected to vest, with an adjustment to capital reserves/non-controlling interests at the same time. For the transfer of treasury stocks to any employee by HEC, the grant date is the date when the number of shares purchased by the employee is confirmed.

(XIII) Income tax

Income tax expense is the total of current income tax and deferred income tax.

1. Current income tax

We determine the current income (loss) in accordance with the Income Tax Act of the Republic of China (Taiwan) to calculate the income tax payable (recoverable).

The additional income tax levied on undistributed earnings calculated in accordance with the Income Tax Act of the Republic of China (Taiwan) is recognized in the year when the related resolution is adopted by a shareholders' meeting.

Adjustments to income taxes payable in prior years are recognized in current income tax.

2. Deferred income tax

Deferred income tax is calculated as the temporary difference between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities recorded in the account and the tax base for calculation of taxable income.

Deferred income tax liabilities are generally recognized in respect of all taxable temporary differences. Deferred income tax assets are recognized when it is probable that taxable income will be available for offsetting income tax arising from deductible temporary differences and offsetting of losses.

Taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries are recognized as deferred income tax liabilities, unless we are able to control the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future. Deferred income tax assets for deductible temporary differences associated with such investments are recognized only to the extent where it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to realize the temporary differences and that they are expected to reverse in the foreseeable future.

The carrying amount of deferred income tax assets is reviewed on each balance sheet date and reduced to the extent where it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable income will be available to allow the recovery all or part of the assets. Those that are not initially recognized as deferred income tax assets are also reviewed on each balance sheet date and increased to the extent where it is probable that sufficient taxable income will be available in the future to allow the recovery all or part of the assets.

Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rate of the period when the liabilities or assets are expected to be settled or realized. The tax rate is based on the tax rates and laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the balance sheet date. Deferred income tax liabilities and assets are measured to reflect our tax consequences on the balance sheet date arising from the methods that are expected to be used to recover or settle the carrying amount of the assets and liabilities.

3. Current and deferred income taxes

Current and deferred income taxes are recognized in profit or loss, except for those related to items recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, which are recognized separately in other comprehensive income separately or directly in equity.

V. Main sources of uncertainty of material accounting judgments, estimates and assumptions

In adopting accounting policies, the management must make judgments, estimates and assumptions in respect of information that is not readily available from other sources based on historical experience and other relevant factors. The actual results could differ from the estimates.

We have taken the possible effects of the Russia–Ukraine war and relevant international sanctions on the economic environment into the consideration of material accounting estimates, including cash flow estimation, growth rate, discount rate and profitability. Its management will continue to review the estimates and basic assumptions. If a correction of the estimates affects only the current period, it is recognized in the period when it is made. If a correction of the estimates affects both the current and future periods, it is recognized in the period when it is made and in the future period.

Main source of uncertainty of estimates and assumptions – income tax

As of December 31, 2023 and 2022, the effects of income tax of taxable temporary differences relating to investments in subsidiaries without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities amounted to NTD397,208 thousand and NTD364,121 thousand respectively. With expected remittance of earnings in the future, reversal of taxable temporary differences and recognition of material deferred income tax liabilities are likely to occur with their recognition as income tax expenses over the period of occurrence.

Our average loan period for sales of goods is 1 to 4 months, with zero accrued on accounts receivable. In order to mitigate credit risk, our management has designated special teams for determination of credit lines, approval of loans and other monitoring procedures to ensure that appropriate actions are taken to recover overdue payments receivable. Furthermore, we review the recoverable amounts of payments receivable separately on the balance sheet date to ensure that irrecoverable payments receivable have been accounted for in appropriate impairment losses. Accordingly, our management considers that its credit risks have reduced significantly.

We recognize the loss allowance for accounts receivable based on the full lifetime expected credit losses. The full lifetime expected credit losses are calculated using a provision matrix with consideration of the default history and current financial condition of a customer and the economic trend of the industry. Since our historical experience in credit losses has shown no significant difference in the types of loss between distinct customer bases, we have made no further distinction between the customer bases and have only set the expected credit loss rate based on the number of days of accounting of accounts receivable.

If there is any evidence indicating that the counterparty is faced with severe financial difficulties and that we are not able to reasonably expect any recoverable amount, e.g. the counterparty is undergoing liquidation, we directly write off the relevant accounts receivable, and we will continue to pursue recourse actions. All amounts recovered through recourse are recognized in profit/loss.

Our loss allowances for accounts receivable (including related parties) measured using the provision matrix are as follows:

|   | 0 to 90 days        | 91 to 180 days    | 181 to 365 days  | 366 or more days | Total               |

The estimate is based on the historical experience in warranty and is adjusted after taking into account new raw materials, change in the manufacturing process or other factors affecting product quality.

XVIII. Post-employment benefit plans

- (I) Defined contribution plan

The pension system under the “Labor Pension Act,” as applied by us, is a defined contribution plan managed by the government. A pension equal to 6% of an employee’s monthly salary is allocated and deposited into a special personal account at the Bureau of Labor Insurance.

(II) Defined benefit plan

The pension system adopted by HEC in accordance with the “Labor Pension Act” is a defined benefit plan managed by the government. The pension paid to an employee is calculated based on the length of his/her service and the average salary over the 6 months prior to the approved date of his/her retirement. We allocate a fixed amount each month as pension and deposit it into a special account at the Bank of Taiwan in the name of the Labor Pension Fund Supervisory Committee. If, by the end of each year, the estimated balance in the special account is insufficient for payments to employees who are expected to meet the criteria for retirement in the next year, we will allocate the difference in a lump sum by the end of March next year. The special account is managed by the Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor, and HEC does not have any right to influence the investment management strategies.

The amounts of defined benefit plan included in the parent-only balance sheet are as follows:

Due to the pension system under the “Labor Standards Act,” we are exposed to the following risks:

1. Investment risk: The Bureau of Labor Funds, Ministry of Labor has, for own discretionary use or through contracted management, invested the labor pension funds into domestic (foreign) equity and debt securities and bank deposits, even though the distributable amount of HEC’s plan assets is a profit calculated at an interest rate no less than that for a 2-year time deposit with a local bank.
2. Interest rate risk: A decrease in the interest rates of government bonds will increase the present value of defined benefit obligations, but will also increase the return on debt investments in plan assets. Both increases have a partial offsetting effect against the impact of net defined benefit liabilities.
3. Salary risk: The present value of defined benefit obligations is calculated based on the future salary of the plan participants. As a result, an increase in the salary of the plan participants will raise the present value of defined benefit obligations.

The present value of our defined benefit obligations is calculated actuarially by a qualified actuary. The material assumptions on the date of measurement are as follows:

|                               | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Discount rate                 | 1.3%                     | 1.4%                     |
| Expected salary increase rate | 2.25%                    | 2.25%                    |

In the event of reasonably possible changes in the material actuarial assumptions, the resulting increase (decrease) in the present value of defined benefit obligations where all other assumptions remain the same is as follows:

|                               | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|-------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Discount rate                 |                          |                          |
| Increase by 0.25%             | ( $ 243 )        | ( $ 253 )        |
| Decrease by 0.25%             | $ 252            | $ 261            |
| Expected salary increase rate |                          |                          |
| Increase by 0.25%             | $ 242            | $ 252            |
| Decrease by 0.25%             | ( $ 236 )        | ( $ 245 )        |

Since the actuarial assumptions may be correlated and changes in only a single assumption are unlikely, the sensitivity analysis above may not reflect actual changes in the present value of defined benefit obligations.

Note 1: This category of capital reserves may be used to offset losses, or to distribute cash dividends or be contributed to the share capital if HEC has no losses, provided that such contribution to the share capital does not exceed a certain percentage of the paid-in share capital each year.

Note 2: This category of capital reserves are the effects of equity transactions recognized due to changes in the equity of subsidiaries where HEC has not actually acquired or disposed of the equity of subsidiaries.

(III) Retained earnings and dividend policy

According to the earnings distribution policy under the Articles of Incorporation, where HEC has earnings in the final accounts of a fiscal year, it shall set aside 10% thereof as legal reserves after paying taxes and offsetting losses as legally required, unless the amount of such legal reserves equals or exceeds HEC's paid-in capital. The remaining amount of the foregoing earnings shall be set aside or reversed as special reserves in accordance with the law. If there are still any remaining earnings, the Board of Directors shall, depending on the operating performance, retain such earnings plus the accumulated undistributed earnings, and shall prepare a proposal for distribution of earnings and submit the proposal to a shareholders' meeting for a resolution on distribution of bonuses to shareholders. For the policy of distribution of the remuneration for employees, directors and supervisors in the Articles of Incorporation, see Note 21(7) "Remuneration for employees and directors."

In consideration of its future investment funding needs and its financial structure, HEC has adopted a balanced and stable dividend policy for the purposes of sustainable management and long-term development, with shareholders' interests and other factors taken into account. Each year, no less than 10% of the distributable earnings shall be appropriated for distribution of bonuses to shareholders. No such distribution is required if the cumulative distributable earnings amount to less than 2% of the paid-in share capital. For distribution of dividends in any future year, it is expected that the amount of cash dividends distributed will be no less than 10% of the total dividends distributed in that year, and that such dividends will, based on the investment funding needs and the level of dilution of earnings per share, be distributed in stock or cash, as appropriate.

Legal reserves may be used to offset losses. Where HEC has no losses and if legal reserves exceed the total paid-in capital by 25%, the excess amount may

|-----------------------------|----------|------------|------|------|

(V) Consolidated amount of temporary differences relating to investments without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities

To meet the need of foreign investee companies for working capital, our management has decided that the undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries will be first used for permanent reinvestments without any distribution of profit. Such temporary differences are unlikely to be reversed in the foreseeable future. As of December 31, 2023 and 2022, the taxable temporary differences relating to the foregoing investments in subsidiaries without recognition of deferred income tax liabilities amounted to NTD1,986,040 thousand and NTD1,820,605 thousand respectively.

(VI) Approval of income tax

The return of our profit-seeking enterprise income tax up until 2021 was approved by the tax authority.

XXIII. Earnings per share

The earning and the weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of EPS are as follows:

Net profit in the current year

|                                | 2023              | 2022              |
|--------------------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
| Net profit in the current year | $ 605,857 | $ 368,776 |

Number of shares

|  | 2023             | 2022                  |
|--|------------------|-----------------------|
|  |                  | Unit: thousand shares |
| Basic EPS  |                  |                       |
| Starting number of outstanding common shares                                 | 113,286          | 113,286               |
| Less: Weighted average number of treasury shares                             | ( 1,375 ) | ( 808 )        |
| Weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of basic EPS   | 111,911          | 112,478               |
| Effect of dilutive potential common shares:                                  |                  |                       |
| Remuneration for employees   | 1,096     | 1,391          |
| Weighted average number of common shares used for calculation of diluted EPS | 113,007   | 113,869        |

Where we choose to distribute the remuneration for employees in shares or cash, the diluted EPS is calculated by adding the number of dilutive potential common shares to the weighted average number of outstanding shares under the assumption that the remuneration for employees will be distributed in shares. The dilutive effect of the potential common shares is taken into account when calculating the diluted EPS before a resolution is adopted on the number of shares distributable as the remuneration for employees.

XXIV. Agreement on share-based payment

(III) Transfer treasury shares to employees.

In April 2023, Employees' stock options were issued for 1,000 thousand treasury shares to recipients including the employees of HEC and subsidiaries, with their vesting criteria being immediate vesting.

The following is the information of employees' stock options for treasury shares:

|  | 2023                      |   |
|--|---------------------------|---|
| Employees' stock optionsfor treasury shares  | Unit (thousandshares) | Weighted averageprice of issue(NTD) |

| Granted in the currentyear   | 1,000                     | 29.57                                       |
| Issued in the current year   | ( 1,000 )          | 29.57                                       |

| Weighted average fairvalue of employees'stock options fortreasury shares grantedin the current year(NTD) | $ 16.40           |   |

Regarding the employees' stock options for treasury shares granted in April 2023, we have used the Black-Scholes pricing model adopting the following parameters:

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| Transfer price                              | NTD 29.57 |
| Expected lifetime                           | 14days    |
| Share price on the date ofgranting      | NTD 45.95 |
| Expected rate of shareprice fluctuation | 48.744%   |
| Expected dividend yield                     | 0%        |
| Risk-free interest rate                     | 1.10%     |

The expected rate of share price fluctuation is based on the annualized standard deviation of the daily returns during April 6, 2023 to April 25, 2023. For the full year of 2023, the recognized remuneration cost was NTD16,400 thousand, and the capital reserves generated by transferring treasury shares to employees amounted to NTD16,311 thousand.

(IV) Subsidiaries issue employee stock options

In June 2022, the subsidiary OPT issued employees' stock options for 2,870 thousand shares, the recipients of which included the employees of HEC and OPT. The stock options are valid for three years, and a holder of their warrants may, on each anniversary of the date of their issuance, exercise a certain percentage of such options granted.

| Employees' stock options  | 2023                         |   | 2022                         |   |

| Weighted average fair value of employees' stock options for treasury shares granted in the current year (NTD) | $ -                         |   | $ 2.35                      |   |

Regarding the employees' stock options granted by OPT to the employees of HEC and OPT in June 2022, OPT used the Black-Scholes pricing model adopting the following parameters:

|                         |                 |
|-------------------------|-----------------|
| Price on the grant date | NTD 11.7        |
| Expected lifetime       | 2 to 2.5 years  |
| Expected dividend yield | 0%              |
| Risk-free interest rate | 1.212% ~ 1.216% |

For the years 2023 and 2022, our recognized NTD203 thousand and NTD189 thousand, respectively, as remuneration cost.

XXV. Capital risk management

Our chief management periodically reviews our capital structure, including consideration of the costs and relevant risks of all categories of capital. Therefore, we engage in capital management for the purpose of ensuring the availability of required financial resources and operational plans to meet the needs for working capital, capital expenditure, R&D expense, debt repayment and dividend expense in the next 12 months.

XXVI. Financial instruments

(I) Fair value information – financial instruments not measured at fair value

Our management considers that the carrying value of financial assets and liabilities not measured at fair value is near its fair value.

(II) Types of financial instruments

|  | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|--|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Financial assets                              |                          |                          |
| Financial assets measured at amortized cost (Note 1) | $ 2,489,709             | $ 2,135,529             |

| Measured at amortized cost (Note 2)                  | 3,623,421                | 3,315,073                |

Note 1: The balance included financial assets measured at amortized cost, such as cash and cash equivalents, Financial assets measured at amortized cost - current , accounts receivable (including related parties), other receivables (including related parties) and guarantee deposits paid.

Note 2: The balance includes financial liabilities measured at amortized cost, such as short-term loans, , accounts payable (including related parties), other payables (including related parties) and deposits received.

(III) Purposes and policies of financial risk management

Our primary financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable and accounts and loans payable. Our financial management department is responsible for providing services to business units, planning and coordinating operations for entry into domestic and international financial markets, and monitoring and managing financial risks in relation to our operations using internal risk reports that analyze risk exposure based on the level and scope of risks. Such risks include market risks (including exchange rate risk, interest rate risk and other price risks), credit risk and liquidity risk.

1. Market risks

The risks of change in foreign exchange rates (see (1) below) and in interest rates (see (2) below) are the major financial risks we bear as a result of our operating activities.

There has been no change in our exposure to the market risks of financial instruments or our methods for management and measurement of such exposure.

(1) Exchange rate risk

We engage in transactions of the sale and purchase of goods denominated in foreign currencies, exposing us to the risk of change in foreign exchange rates.

For the carrying amounts of our monetary assets and liabilities denominated in non-functional currencies on the balance sheet date, see Note 30.

Sensitivity analysis

We are affected primarily by fluctuations in the exchange rates of USD.

The following table describes in detail our sensitivity analysis in the event where the exchange rate of NTD (our functional currency) to each foreign currency increases or decreases by 1%. 1% is the sensitivity rate used in an internal report to our primary management regarding exchange rate risk, and also represents the range of reasonable possible change in foreign exchange rates as assessed by our management. The positive number in the following table means the amount of increase in the pre-tax net profit when NTD depreciates by 1% against each foreign currency. When NTD appreciates by 1% against each foreign currency, the effect on the pre-tax net profit is a negative number of the same amount.

|     | 2023 | 2022 |
|-----|-------------|-------------|
| USD | $ 980      | $ 6,042    |

(2) Interest rate risk

The interest rate risk exposure occurs due to the borrowing of funds by us at both fixed and floating interest rates. We manage interest rate risks by maintaining a proper combination of fixed and floating interest rates.

The carrying amounts of the financial assets and liabilities of HEC exposed to the interest rate risk on the balance sheet date are as follows:

|                       | December 31, 2023 | December 31, 2022 |
|-----------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| With cash flow        |                          |                          |
| interest rate risk    |                          |                          |
| Financial assets      | $ 345,753               | $ 618,651               |
| Financial liabilities | 700,500                  | 945,000                  |

Our assessment has indicated no significant fair value risk with regard to the time deposits at banks with fixed interest rate, bonds with conditions for repurchase, short-term loans, payable and lease liabilities held by us.

Sensitivity analysis

The following sensitivity analysis is based on the interest rate risk exposure of non-derivative instruments on the balance sheet date. The analysis focuses on assets and liabilities with floating interest rates under the assumption that the amounts of outstanding assets and liabilities on the balance sheet date are outstanding over the reporting period. A 1% increase or decrease in interest rate is the rate of change used in an internal report to our primary management regarding interest rate, and also represents the range of reasonable possible change in interest rate as assessed by its management.

If the interest rate increases/decrease by 1% with all other variables remaining constant, our pre-tax net profits in 2023 and 2022 would decrease/increases by NTD3,547 thousand and NTD3,263 thousand respectively, mainly due to the interest rate risk exposure of the cash flows of our deposits and loans with floating interest rate.

2. Credit risk

Credit risk means the risk of financial loss incurred by us as a result of a delay by the counterparty in fulfilling contractual obligations. The greatest credit risk exposure of financial losses we are likely to incur as of the balance sheet date due to failure of the counterparty to fulfill its obligations and our provision of financial guarantees include:

- (1) The carrying amount of financial assets recognized in the parent-only balance sheet.
- (2) The highest amount we may need to pay in providing financial guarantees, regardless of the likelihood of its occurrence.

The balances of accounts receivable from customers with a significant concentration of credit risk.

|           | December 31, 2023 |    | December 31, 2022 |    |
|-----------|-------------------|----|-------------------|----|
|           | Amount            | %  | Amount            | %  |
| Company A | $ 1,064,347      | 57 | $ 567,594        | 44 |
| Company B | 295,942           | 16 | 149,387           | 11 |

3. Liquidity risk

We manage and maintain cash and cash equivalents for sufficient positions to sustain our operations and mitigate the effects of fluctuations in cash flows. Our management supervises the use of bank financing amounts and ensures compliance with the terms of loan contracts.

Our working capital and the bank financing amounts acquired are sufficient to meet the needs of our future operations. Thus, there is no liquidity risk arising from inability to raise funds for the fulfillment of contractual obligations.

Bank loans are an important source of liquidity for us. For our undisbursed financing amounts, see the description in “(2) Financing limit” below.

(1) Table of liquidity and interest rate risks of non-derivative financial liabilities

The analysis of maturity of the remaining contracts of non-derivative financial liabilities is prepared based on the earliest date when we are likely to be required to make repayment and the undiscounted cash flow of financial liabilities (including principal and estimated interest). Thus, any bank loan for which we are likely to be required to make immediate repayment is listed within the earliest period in the following table, regardless of the probability of the bank enforcing its rights immediately, and the analysis of maturity of other non-derivative financial liabilities is prepared based on the agreed repayment date.

For the cash flow of interest paid at a floating interest rate, the undiscounted amount of interest is derived according to the yield curve on the balance sheet date.
